INDICT POLICEMAN IN KILLING

Today

Typhoon and Christian Whiskey and Men, Bootleg "Cop-Dodger," New Drug They Really Drowned Him

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1927, by Star Co.)

BAD NEWS from Asia. In Japan 1,000 are reported killed by a fearful typhoon and tidal wave sweeping away villages on Kiushiu Island. The typhoon is said to have been the most severe in many years.

China reports 80,000 massacred by Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, called the "Christian General." That Chinese Christian, roused to fury because some of his men were killed by the "Heavenly Gate" society, ordered in revenge a slaughter that included old men, women and children. A Christian general can be more deadly than a typhoon.

Mr. Hull, in charge of United States immigration, says millions of foreigners are in this country illegally. We accept immigration as we do our alcoholic drinks, only of the bootleg variety.

Whether it is wise to specialize in bootleg whiskey and bootleg immigration remains to be seen.

A new drug appears in American illicit selling, called by addicts and criminals the "cop-dodger." Chief Magistrate McAdoo, of New York, says it comes easily through the custom house. Then a simple treatment turns the preparation into morphine.

The increase in drug use and the number of addicts in America shows how hard it is for prohibition or law to reach small packages, easily concealed drugs and whiskey.

New York city no longer relishes ordinary murders, now so plentiful, but is mildly interested in this one.

Benjamin Goldstein took out insurance, at the cost of friends, for $70,000. Joseph Lefkowitz, Harry Goldberg and Irving Rabinzahl told Goldstein they would take him in a boat, pretend he was drowned, hide him and collect the insurance. They took him in a boat, but did not pretend. They dropped him overboard, rowed away, let him drown. The three are indicted for murder in the first degree. A rabbi who happened to be on the shore saw the deliberate drowning and reported it. There will be recriminations when the plotters meet again, presently.

Accepted ideas go overboard one after another. Science does

FINE EDDIE MOORE OF BRAVES FOR 'PLAYING POORLY' IN FLAG FIGHT

Eddie Moore, Braves infielder, will be suspended today by Owner Emil Fuchs, in all probability, for his alleged indifferent playing in the double-header against the Pirates at Pittsburgh yesterday.

Moore was fined $200, according to a Smoky City dispatch, for failure to slide into the plate with the run that would have tied up the second game in the ninth inning.

"And the matter is not closed yet," Bancroft is quoted after the announcement of the fine.

Coming in the middle of one of the most bitter pennant fights in the history of the National League the Moore case has caused quite a stir throughout the baseball world

Four clubs are in the thick of the battle for the flag. Pittsburgh is leading by three games with St. Louis and New York tied for second place and the Cubs in third position, five games behind the leaders. Previous to yesterday's double win, the Pirates were but two games up on New York and St.

COOLIDGE CHOOSES TO DODGE FIGHT—MOSES

Concord, N. H., Sept. 14.—Senator George H. Moses, Republican leader of New Hampshire, startles many Republican factions today by not only coming out for Herbert Hoover for President, but by adding that President Coolidge withdrew from candidacy because he was afraid to run and saw a decidedly hot fight before him for the Republican nomination.

"I am for Hoover for President," said the Senator, "not because I have any close, intimate or affectionate relations with him. There are several candidates for President with whom I am more closely united by ties of friendship and affection than Herbert Hoover.

"I am not for Hoover because I think he is the easiest man we can elect next year. I am not looking at

GIVEN 19 YEARS FOR SHOOTING POLICEMAN

As notification to the criminal element that they cannot shoot policemen, Judge Fosdick today meted out a sentence of from nineteen and a half to twenty years in State Prison to Fortunato Perrone of Prince street, North End.

A jury in Suffolk Superior Court found Perrone guilty of assault with intent to kill Patrolman John F. Farrell.

The sentence imposed is the maximum. Perrone, who is thirty-nine years old, will not become eligible for parole until he has served at least thirteen years.

"Some day, perhaps the law will permit the court to impose punishment for what a man is rather than for what he has done," said Judge Fosdick. "As far as the law allows, I try to do that now.

"In this case I think there should be a severe penalty both for what this man has been and for what he has done. While the law does not allow me to impose a definite term, I am going to impose a sentence as nearly definite as I am permitted."

The shooting of Patrolman Farrell occurred nearly two years ago, on November 16, 1925. Perrone was not arrested until last July. Farrell, who has not fully recovered, was arresting five men wanted for larceny when he was wounded. Two besides Perrone are serving time in connection with the case.

WHITING IS APPOINTED TRUSTEE OF ELEVATED

Edward Elwell Whiting, Boston political writer and one of the first biographers of President Coolidge, was today appointed a public trustee of the Boston Elevated Railway by Governor Fuller, to succeed Andrew Marshall who resigned.

The appointment was a big surprise in official circles. Whiting, who is a Harvard graduate, is a veteran Boston newspaperman, but his connection with a Boston newspaper was severed a few weeks ago.

Beside his biography of the President, entitled, "President Coolidge, a Contemporary Estimate," he has written a second volume, "Calvin Coolidge—His Ideals of Citizenship." Both books were used as campaign material in the last Presidential election.

HARRINGTON PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN DEATH OF DORCHESTER BOY

Patrolman Maurice Harrington, attached to the Athens street, South Boston, station, was indicted secretly by the Suffolk Grand Jury on a manslaughter charge, it was revealed today when Harrington was arraigned on the indictment in Superior Court.

The policeman pleaded not guilty, before Judge Fosdick, to a charge of fatally shooting David McDonald, 28, of No. 88 Coleman street, Dorchester, on the night of August 4. Bail was fixed at $5,000.

Henry Nielsen of Dorchester, a companion of McDonald on the night of the killing at Hamilton and Bowdoin streets, Dorchester, and a material witness for the government was required to furnish bail of $1,000 for his appearance at the trial, a date for which was not set.

While Harrington was being arraigned, the Grand Jury returned "no bills" against Fred J. Hayes and Michael J. Lavelle, absolving them of the policeman's charge that they held up and robbed him just before the shooting.

As counsel for the accused policeman John P. Feeney appeared. The government was represented by Assistant District Attorney Doyle.

Patrolman Harrington is alleged to have shot down McDonald after an incident that occurred following Harrington's alighting from a street car.

The policeman, who was in civilian clothes, went to his home a few blocks away and returned with his service revolver.

He claimed that McDonald was one of several youths who had attempted to rob him, but the companions of McDonald told police that Harrington was drunk and resented being asked the Governor's decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, which was rendered late that night.

CLINE PLEADS GUILTY; GETS YEAR, $1,000 FINE

Rockville, Sept. 14 (I.N.S.).—The murder trial of Leonard Cline, New York novelist, came to a sudden end here today. Cline pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the death of Wilfred T. Irwin of Lexington, Va., and was sentenced to one year in the county jail and to pay a fine of $1,000.

Cline was on trial for the first degree murder of Irwin in Mansfield on May 16. The court had been in session four days.

WORLD FLIERS IN TOKIO; INSIST ON PACIFIC HOP

Tokio, Sept. 14 (I.N.S.)—The Pride of Detroit, the American round-the-world plane, arrived at Kasumigaura flying field, about 45 miles from here, at 3 p. m. today. The plane hopped off from Omura aerodrome, near Sasebo Kyushu, at 6.30 this morning. The distance between the two points is about 600 miles.

Tokio, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Ignoring protests, advice and caution, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, round-the-world fliers, announced here today their intention to fly to Midway Island, starting Friday.

They declared they would carry enough fuel in their monoplane Pride of Detroit to continue on to Hawaii in the event that they missed the tiny coral formation in the middle of the Pacific.

A flight from Kasumiguara, near here, to Midway means a non-stop flight of 2,480 miles, and if they are unable to locate Midway, another 1,400 miles to Honolulu.

Brock and Schlee smilingly made the announcement immediately after completing their 600-mile hop from Omura, where they were held up two days by bad weather. They insisted that overseas flying was no more dangerous than flying over land.

TOASTED IN SAKE.

Robert Burger, secretary of the American embassy, first to shake their hands, delivered a stack of cablegrams to the fliers. Most of the messages warned them against attempting a flight to Midway Island.

Both were dressed in ordinary white duck which they said they had worn since leaving Calcutta. They were without hats and gloves.

Escorted to the reception hall, where sake, the principal alcholic drink in Japan, was produced, the fliers were introduced to Japanese ceremonies. Rear Admiral Ando offered a toast. Schlee responded, toasting the Emperor.

One of the first cables Schlee opened was one from his wife in Detroit, which advised him not to fly to Midway. He smiled and said nothing.

Brock received a cablegram from his mother, urging him not to fly to Midway. Of this he said nothing as he read, but he did not smile.

WON'T DEPEND ON COMPASS.

The American fliers spent the night here. Brock expected to return to Kusumigaura early tomorrow to overhaul the plane and to spend tomorrow night with the naval officers there. Schlee planned to visit the Ministers of the Navy and Communications to express appreciation for their treatment in Japan.

Both declared they would not depend upon their compass, but would figure reckonings by what they called "lines of sunset and sunrise" in the Pacific flight.

They announced they would take 450 gallons of gasoline, which they calculated would easily take them to Midway, or, if they do not find the tiny islands, keep them going until they reach Honolulu.

They decided not to change engines, believing the one in the plane much safer and more dependable than the new one they have at Yokohama. They expect to take only a few sandwiches and a vacuum bottle of coffee.

RICH GIRL IS CHLOROFORMED

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Two waiters today were charged with assault and robbery upon Miss Cordie Harvey, twenty-three, member of a prominent Charleston, W. Va., family, who accused them of taking $1,600 in cash and jewelry from her after they had chloroformed her in a room in the Hotel Martinique.

Police say they have obtained confessions from the prisoners, Edward Kelley, twenty-two, and Paul Jefferies, twenty-three, both of Brooklyn. Miss Harvey said the robbery occurred last Saturday after she had been induced by the youths to visit the room to meet a "Mr. and Mrs. Bentley," who were non-existent.

After a few minutes' conversation, Miss Harvey told the police, a cloth soaked with chloroform was placed over the nose and mouth and both men seized her.

Just before she lost consciousness she said she heard one of the men say to his confederate, "You don't have to choke her that way to get the necklace."

Some time later hotel employes heard moans issuing from the room, notified the management and a physician attended Miss Harvey.

The robbers took three rings, the most valuable of which was worth $1,125; a watch, necklace, $20 in cash

STILL SEARCH FOR FLIERS

By DOUGLAS MUIR
Special Correspondent of the N. Y. Daily Mirror.

Aboard S. S. Kyle, Off Newfoundland, Sept. 14.—The wreckage of the Old Glory taken from a heavy sea, consists of 34 feet of wing, containing three tank sections, glass fuel guages and feed pipes connected to the tanks.

A fourth tank is missing. The other three contained large quantities of gasoline when picked up.

The engine and body of the plane evidently had been torn from the wing, leaving no trace of the control cockpit except one lever and speaking tube located near the fuel gauges.

The American flag painted on the right wing was clearly distinguishable and traces of a corresponding flag discernible on the left wing. A portion of one large black painted letter also showed on the right wing, in the shape of the letter "V," or possibly parts of the letters "W," "M," or "N."

The Old Glory carried on its wings the legend: "N-703"—in accordance with government regulations. It is probable the "V" referred to is a fragment of the "N."

Fragments of canvas body casing are painted silver and blue. The ship's undercarriage and left wheel are fairly complete, but the wing and supports are a tangled mass of stays, giving evidence of boisterous weather existing since the disaster. Nevertheless, other wreckage may be found in this vicinity which may give a clue to the fate of the three brave men who accompanied the Old Glory on this ill-fated endeavor. Therefore, we will continue the search, come what may.

A strong southeast wind is blowing and the sea is rough and foggy.

The slim thread of hope for Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, the veterans of the airmail, and Phil A. Payne managing editor of the New York Mirror, has been strengthened rather than severed.

WALTHAM LIQUOR RAIDERS TREED BY POLICE DOG

Waltham's liquor raiders were willing to face desperate bootleggers, knives and pistols, but when a huge police dog who did not recognize the human members of his fraternity—was set upon them—they were forced to take refuge in trees.

They told the tale of the dog in Middlesex Superior Court, and consequently heavy punishment was meted out to the bootleggers.

Louis Murabito, keeper of the place which has been an eyesore to the police for years, was sentenced to two years in jail and fined $1,700, while his co-defendant, Salvatore Faranda, was given a sentence of eighteen months and fined $900.

Assistant District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, prosecuting for the government, told the court that in his five-years in office he knew of no place, with the possible exception of some of the "Brickbottom" cases, so bothersome to the police. There have been a steady stream of cases in court, he said, from this store, and apparently someone else has always been ready to step in and run the place.

He asked that heavy sentences be imposed as a warning that liquor traffic must stop, and that heavy fines be ordered as a direct punishment to the owners of the place.

DISABLED STEAMSHIP SIGHTED AT SEA

New York, Sept. 14.—Sighting of an unidentified steamship, broken down but not in apparent danger, in the Atlantic ocean about 500 miles out of New York, was reported to the Independent Wireless.

The message describing the ship was received from the S. S. Coeur D'Alene of the American export line.

YEAR FOR CLINE IN KILLING

states attorney, and William A. King, chief of Cline's counsel. After one hour and twenty-two minutes, the court session was opened formally and Cline made his plea.

There was no statements by either the state or the defense.

JUDGE'S STATEMENT.

Judge Yeomans declared the plea had been accepted because of the conflicting testimony that had been given in the preliminary investigation and by the fact circumstantial evidence entered so largely into the case.

Among the first to shake hands with cline was Prof. George J. Erwin, brother of the dead man. "No hard feelings, I hope," said Cline.

"No," replied Irwin, "we never felt vindictive."

Mrs. Erwin rushed over to Mrs. Cline, the defendant's wife, and kissed her.

"We never wanted revenge," said the widow.

Cline said he plans to work on a book while in jail. The maximum time he can cut from his sentence for good behavior is two months.

"I guess I'll improve my technique at wielding the axe," he said, referring to the wood-chopping activities of prisoners in the Tolland jail.

It was said that Cline's New York publishers will pay his fine.

PLEA CHANGED.

When the court started after the preliminary recess, Clerk Willis Reed called upon Cline to rise. Then he asked:

"Do you wish to change your plea?"

"Yes," replied Cline.

"What do you wish to plead?" asked Reed.

"Manslaughter," said Cline.

Mr. King was standing at Cline's side at the time, holding his arm as if to support him.

State's Attorney Noone then told Judge Yeomans:

"When the first information concerning this affair came to my attention I had every reason to believe it to be a case of first degree murder, but after investigating at every source I was forced to reach the conclusion that it was not first degree murder at all."

SPECTATORS PLEASED.

Judge Yeomans, after his brief comment imposed the sentence.

The change of plea seemed to stun the spectators, but all at once they recovered and indicated the decision reached by the State was a popular one.

People Cline had never seen before reached to clasp his hand or pat his shoulders and express their pleasure that he had been relieved of the burden of defending himself against a death sentence charge.

KILLS HIMSELF FOR FEAR OF BROTHER-IN-LAW

Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 14 (I.N.S.).—Tragic and violent death, which had already shocked the countryside with the double murder of two State troopers, struck again today and George Miller, Sullivanville, lies dead, a self-slain victim of terror.

Miller, who blew his brains out with a shotgun, was a brother-in-law of the fugitive Wilmot Wagner, sought in two States as the murderer of State Troopers Robert Roy and Arnold Rasmussen.

Breaking after a five-day vigil, during which time he constantly stood guard over his home, evidently fearing the return of his brother-in-law, Miller killed himself in a moment of despair, his relatives believe.

DECLARES U. S. HEALTH NEVER SO GOOD

With nine out of every ten persons in New England grumbling over what they term as one of the worst Summers since "grandfather was a boy," Prof. Ellsworth Huntington of Yale University startled delegates to the fourteenth annual National Business Conference at Babson Park today by declaring the weather for the year will not be far from normal, and remarkable conditions of health prevail in most parts of the United States.

His address was entitled "The Weather and Human Progress." Incidentally it was "weather day" at the conference, for in addition there were addresses on "Definite Short Range Weather Forecasting" by George A. Loveland of the U. S. Weather Bureau at Boston, and on "The Weather of 1927 as Related to Solar Changes" by H. H. Clayton, consulting meteorologist, of Canton.

NATION HEALTHY.

"The weather of the past year has profoundly affected the United States in three chief ways, bad, intermediate and good," declared Prof. Huntington. "The bad effect were the floods of the Mississippi. The intermediate effect appears in the crops, bad in some sections and good in others. The good effect appears in the remarkable conditions of health in nearly all sections of the United States.

"Since the dread year of 1918, with its terrible epidemic of influenza, the health of the United States has improved more or less steadily. The year from September, 1926, to September 1927, has been the most healthful year that the United States as a whole has ever enjoyed.

"Today we are approaching the crest of the wave, and may even be upon it. Next year, or the year after, or at least within a few years, it is practically certain the general health of the country will not be nearly as good, and the death rate may be alarmingly high.

"Cool and stormy Summers, such as we have just experienced, are much more likely to be healthful than those that are warm and free from storms. A warm Winter, such as we had last year, is more healthful than a cold Winter."

VALUE OF FORECASTS.

The value of short range weather forecasts was pointed out by Mr. Loveland. "The short range forecasts are of great value to business interests," he said. "They are of utmost importance to aviation, forest fire wardens, market and truck gardeners, farmers in general, and the cranberry-growing industry. Even restaurants and cafes depend upon weather forecasts in preparing certain types of food and drinks ahead."

That the weather of the United States during 1927 has been marked in a general way by three distinct contrasted conditions, first warm and dry, then cold and wet, and finally warm and dry again, was shown by Meteorologist Clayton of Canton.

"Plots of the average monthly temperatures show at Edmonton, Canada, the greatest excess of temperature was in January. At Helena, Mont., it occurred in February; at Chicago and New York, it occurred in February and March, while in Boston the maximum excess did not occur until March," he said.

G. O. P. IN PLEA TO NOMINATE BY OLD WAY

The direct primary was scored as a "corruption breeder" and defended as "one of the greatest reforms in the State" by speakers at a hearing today before the special legislative committee considering changes, if any, that should be made in the election laws.

Francis Prescott, chairman of the Republican State Committee, speaking unofficially, pleaded for a pre-primary convention innovation for designation of party State and U. S Senatorial candidates. Massachusetts, he declared, has been unfortunate in having no such primary scandals as Pennsylvania and Illinois "where millions were spent buying nominations." He warned that "we are open to the same thing here."

The corrupt practices act, he continued, has never been enforced because every attorney general elected since its passing prsumably believed it unconstitutional.

SAYS RICH FAVORED.

The wealthy man, he argued, has more chance now than the poor man, because while he is limited in his personal expenditures, unlimited amounts can be spent through formation of so-calle., candidate's committee.

"Under the convention system it was always possible to draft a man for higher office even though he did not choose to run," he said. "There is a tremendous dread throughout the State about going back to the party machine but we have built up something worse—an individual machine."

Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, a member of the Democratic State Committee, dcelared the direct primary is one of the "most just laws ever put upon the statute books." He warned the committee it was throwing away valuable time in listening "to the same old speakers and the same old arguments" against the primary.

He was not concerned over "candidates who do not choose to run," he said.

FAVOR PRIMARIES.

"The trouble is there are too many candidates and most of them good candidates, too," he contended. He characterized the pre-primary convention move as "a thin wedge toward destruction of the entire system."

William F. Garcelon, attorney, favored retention of the direct primary for the choosing of candidates for representative and senator only. He charged the successful candidate under the direct primary is the man with "the biggest pocketbook and the loudest voice."

He also charged that the direct primary has "fostered corruption" and divided responsibility.

UNCLE OF RICH BOSTON WOMAN IS SUICIDE

Returning from a trip to Boston and Manchester-by-the-Sea, Frank P. Mitchell, wealthy and socially prominent, stood before a mirror in the Metropolitan Club at Washington today and killed himself.

He was sixty years old and was an uncle of Mrs. Quincy Adams Shaw, 2nd, of Boston, at whose father's estate in Manchester he had been vacationing for part of the Summer.

Mitchell's body with a bullet hole in the head, was found in his club rooms by a bellboy who was sent to the rooms when the occupant failed to answer the telephone.

Friends were summoned, among them Associate Justice McReynolds on the Supreme Court. He took charge of the revolver that lay on the floor beside Mitchell's body.

According to these friends, the wealthy clubman, who went to Washington forty years ago from Cincinnati, had been in ill health for some time and this is believed to have been the motive for his suicide.

Mitchell's brother and Mrs. Shaw's father is Walter Mitchell of Manchester-by-the-Sea.

In addition to the brother and niece, Mitchell is survived by his wife and three stepdaughters, two of whom are Mrs. Camilla Lippincott, formerly of Philadelphia, and Vicomtesse de Berghem of Belgium.

Fear Her Death

Miss Frances A. Anderson of Haverhill, who is in Calexico, Mex., and whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Anderson, of No. 56 Margin street, Haverhill, fear she may have met the same fate there as another Miss Anderson, slain by bandits.

DISAPPEARANCE SECRET TO BE REVEALED

The missing books of account of the defunct G. F. Redmond Co., Inc., stock brokerage house promise to figure again in court in an unexpected way through the medium of a $20,000 alienation suit filed in Superior Court by Henry E. English of Maiden against his wife's uncle and aunt.

Answering a charge by English that he told false and malicious stories to the effect that English had knowledge of the missing books, Alfred Francis of Codman street, Dorchester, one of the two defendants, declared today:

"I know who took the books and in whose car they were taken away, and who was there when they were taken. If I'm asked in court, I'll tell all I know about it."

English alleges that this and other stories told his wife by Mr. and Mrs. Francis caused her affection for him to wane.

"I ordered the Englishes from my home and I'll do so again if they come here," said Francis. "I don't want to have anything to do with them."

According to Mrs. Francis, the Englishes have two children, Virginia, three, and Mary, five years old.

"This suit is the first move in a plan on the part of Mr. English to prevent his wife from gaining custody of Virginia," said Mrs. Francis. "Virginia is now living with him, while Mrs. English has placed the elder girl with a friend of hers."

Mrs. Francis denied that either she or her husband had any knowledge of the books of the G. F. Redmond Co., Inc., which failed a few years ago when the two heads, G. F. Redmond and James Lamont, were arrested and imprisoned.

GIVE SILENT TOAST TO COLLINS' MEMORY

Today is the twenty-second anniversary of the death of General Patrick A. Colins, former mayor of Boston.

Following a custom of many years, Judge Joseph J. Corbett of the Land Court, City Clerk James Donovan, Patrick J. Kennedy and Register of Deeds William T. A. Fitzgerald met at the University Club to recall some of the incidents of the old days. A silent toast was given to Gen. Collins. A laurel wreath was placed later on General Collins' grave in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline, by the group.

SUED FOR HEART BALM

ALFRED FRANCIS

Who says he will tell in court how and by whom missing books in famous G. F. Redmond Co., Inc., stock brokerage suit were taken away. Francis and his wife, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Henry E. English of Malden, are being sued by Mrs. English's husband for alleged alienation of her affections by telling her stories of how the books vanished.

COSGRAVE ASKS FULL VOTE IN FREE STATE

Dublin, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Closing one of the most strenuous campaigns in recent years, the Free State political parties today were making their final appeals to the electors who will go to the polls tomorrow to determine the make-up of the Free State's next Parliament.

In his final appeal President Cosgrave declared a clear decision was necessary and he asked for a full vote, asserting that at no election in the last five years has the poll been as large as it should have been.

Opponents of the Free State, he said, had rejected freedom because it was not framed by themselves.

Ernest Blythe, minister of finance, speaking at Monaghan, said: "If I could turn the Free State into a republic tomorrow, I would not lift a finger to do it. I would work with all my might against it. We have all we want."

The Public Safety act, introduced by the Cosgrave government at the last session giving the government sweeping powers in curbing subversive movements, is playing an important part in the campaign, and both the government party and the Republicans are impressing upon the people that, if President Cosgrave wins, the act will be put into full operation.

FEAR 80 LOST IN STORM ON NO. ATLANTIC

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Grim indications that the storm which swept the north Atlantic on August 24 took a higher toll of life and shipping than has yet been realized continue to mount at this port.

The latest of a number of such advices to reach C. H. Harvey, local agent for the marine and fisheries department, was in the form of a wireless message from the steam trawler Loubyrne which told of disaster to another hapless schooner. Her trawls had brought to the surface 30 feet of a schooner's keel, but with no marks of identification.

COLUMBIA DORY FOUND.

Sable Island reported that debris there included a spruce and oak hatch painted gray, a dory marked "Columbia" and a dory marked "Eva C. Rose." There were also parts of other dories drifted ashore, but without marks of identification.

The Gloucester schooner Columbia has been reported since the storm, but it is believed possible that one of her dories may have been washed overboard. The Eva C. Rose was believed to be either a New England or Newfoundland schooner.

HOPE GIVEN UP.

Practically all hope has been abandoned for the schooners Clayton Walters, Mahalla and Joyce C. Smith, all Lunenburg vessels, and their crews of 60 men. The first two carried practically all Lunenburg men, but those on the Smith were mainly from Newfoundland.

Anxiety is felt for the Lunenburg schooner Ida R. Corkrum with 20 men aboard. The Corkrum was believed to have been near Sable Island, the graveyard of the Atlantic, during the storm, and no definite news of it has been received since.

Grenfell Yacht Breaks Adrift and is Missing

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—The power yacht Maraval, damaged in a recent explosion at Sydney in which four persons, members of the Greenfell mission to Labrador were severely burned, was adrift today from its tow, the auxillary schooner Radio of the MacMillan scientific expedition.

The Maraval was being taken to Rockland, Me. It parted ways with the Radio off Cranberry Light, Guyboro County, and was lost to sight.

Advices from the Radio to C. H. Harvey, local agent of the marine and fisheries department, failed to say whether there was anyone aboard the Maraval.

Harvey notified the Canadian government steamer Arras and all shipping along the coast to keep a sharp watch for the derelict.

Gas Crowding Patient's Heart—Nurse Gives BELL-ANS for Indigestion—Gets Sure Relief

Cleveland, O., Aug. 23, 1927.—

"I have been a private nurse for 20 years and am on the go all the time, both in private homes and hospitals. For the last seven years I have always carried in my kit a bottle of Bell-Ans as I have always found them very useful as well as effective. And every place I have used them you can rest assured there is a bottle in that home now.

In July I was called to a very small hospital for an old man. When I arrived the patient was suffering with nausea and greatly suffering from gas and it was crowding the heart. The case looked hopeless. I began giving Bell-Ans and in less than an hour my patient was sleeping and is now well and working. But every day he still takes his Bell-Ans. All that I have ever used were my own but I know it to be a fact they have been the means of saving many a life. Wherever I have used them they are now a household remedy.

While out on my last case I ate some cucumbers which later caused me some distress. I took Six tablets out of my kit and in a few minutes was as good as new. Will be glad at any time to write you a testimonial without charge for publication.

I thank you."

"It's Toasted" gives Lucky Strikes the finest flavor and protects the throat

What 11,105* doctors write about smoking

WHAT is the quality that Tito Schipa, Jeanne Gordon, Clarence Whitehill, Nina Morgana, Frank Keenan, Ezio Pinza, William Hodge, Laura Hope Crews and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

G. A. R. VETS IN 'LAST PARADE'

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The annual p a le of the Grand Army of the Republic occupied the thoughts today of the veterans of the Civil War for their sixty-first annual encampment. Much of the parade route, a mile long, was a wearisome ascent of Monroe avenue.

For many it was the last parade: possibly the last of the G. A. R. as an organization.

None but soldiers of the Civil War were permitted to participate. Women, children and civilians were denied places in line. No flags or standards, excepting the national and state flags and department and post flags were allowed.

At Fulton Park Commander-in-Chief Frank A. Walsh and his staff reviewed the old soldiers.

With the parade as today's outstanding event, log rolling for the coming election was temporarily in the background. While the names of five or six of the visiting veterans were mentioned for commander-in-chief, those of Eldridge L. Hawk of California and John C Clem of Washington, D. C., were most frequently heard.

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The Rev. Theodosius Tyng, retired clergyman, of Barrington R. I., reported missing from his daughter's home here, was found by a policeman early today wandering in the vicinity of 40th street and Sixth avenue, apparently suffering from loss of memory. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

He came to New York last week to visit his daughter and disappeared yesterday afternoon after starting for a walk.

The Rev. Mr. Tyng had held a pastorate at Ashland, N. H., previous to his retirement in 1919.

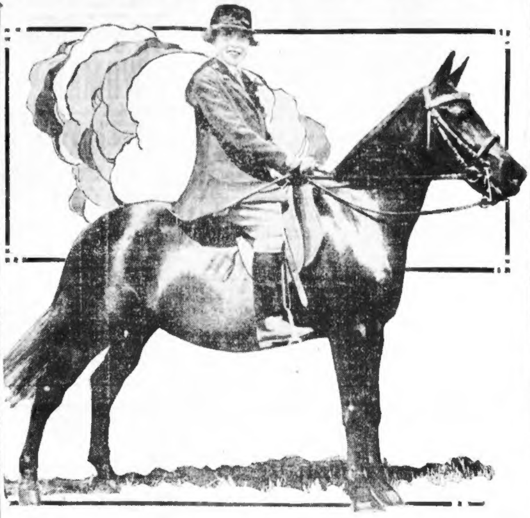
BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

The Robert Treat Paines Are Still Lingering in Summer Home at Waltham



ROSE MEROE FLINT

Youthful rider is identified with the Jacobs Hill Hunt Club of Providence, R. I. She is riding Rosedale Jill, a Philip Caswell pony.

PEOPLE FORTUNATE IN THE possession of pleasant country homes love to linger in them long after the town season is authentically open. Such, for instance, as "Stonehurst," the Waltham place of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Paine. Not until long after snow flies do Mr. and Mrs. Paine leave this lovely hilltop home and come into town to their Arlington Street abode. The Paines had a marvelous Summer of it at their favorite stamping ground, the Algonquin in St. Andrews, down in New Brunswick.

TWO IDYLLIC MONTHS WERE spent there before they came home through the mountains, with stops at Mount Washington, Sugar Hill and all the important points of the Granite State. The Robert Treat Paines arrived in town just about the same moment the Robert Treat Paine Storers returned from abroad. Mr. and Mrs. Storer and Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Hall, Jr. (she was Lydia Storer), made up a family party to go abroad, and for the past two months have been traveling over Europe.

SOME OF THE YOUNG PEOPLE in the large and interesting Paine connection have pleasant Winter's plans. Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman Paine, Jr. (Ruth Forbes), have taken an apartment in New York and will be in the Big City for the next few months, after having lived abroad for nearly two years following their marriage. The Big City and an apartment therein figure also for young Mr. and Mrs. John Malcolm Forbes (Ethel Cummings). They will be in New York while Mr. Forbes continues his theological studies.

BACK FROM ABROAD COMES JOHN LAVALLE, YOUNG AND widely-known Boston painter, with his artist's kit under his arm and his portfolio filled brimful with choice oils and aquarelles, the fruit of his Summer journey. All Summer long have Mr. Lavalle and his mother, Mrs. Lavalle, of Marlborough street and Nahant, been wandering over the Continent, seeking those byways which know not the tourist in his hasty transit, but are dearly beloved of the painting fraternity.

DURING THIS MOST RECENT OF THE LAVALLE JOURNEYS abroad Mrs. John Lavalle and the three Lavalle hopefuls have been putting in a Summer at Nahant. Mrs. Lavalle, the younger, was Miss Ellen Tufts, and the Winter menage is in Cambridge. Exhibitions later in the season are included in the Lavalle program—always a pleasant prospect for the young painter's scores of friends and well wishers.

MRS. H. HOOPER LAWRENCE IS LINGERING IN HER CONCORD country place for some time yet, until final arrangements for Miss Barbara Lawrence's tea bring her definitely to town. The Lawrences' second daughter, Miss Barbara, is included in the current crop of buds. She follows the elder daughter, Miss Caroline Lawrence, into the social arena, and no doubt as many pleasant things will be done for Miss Barbara as marked Miss Caroline's coming out Winter.

MINTON MACHADO WARREN, WHO BECOMES A BENEDICT ON Saturday next before the historic colonial altar of King's Chapel, will have as his chief support for the nuptial, Jose A. Machado of New York, who steps into the post that was to have been assumed by Augustus A. Paine. Maurice M. Osborne is head usher, and has for his corps Downing P. Brown, Daniel F. Comstock, Brenton R. Dickson, 3d; Endicott Rantoul and Chandler Robbins, 2d.

THE BRIDAL OF MR. WARREN AND MISS SARAH RIPLEY ROBBINS ushers in with pomp and ceremony the Autumn's quota of important town ceremonials, and for it an interesting company will rustle into the high backed pews of King's Chapel. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Minton Warren (Salome Machado) is justly proud of his direct descent from a Mayflower voyager, and the bride's family tree is laden likewise, with leaves bearing names lustrous with achievement in the days of the colony and of the State.

LITTLE MISS ROSE MEROE FLINT is one of the younger riders identified with the smart Jacobs Hill Hunt Club of Providence, that stages excellent horse shows and rides to hounds. With September's advent the Jacobs Hill set is quite as active in its cross-country riding as are the hunt clubs hereabouts, and the call of the horn is heard, early morning and late afternoon, over the hills and trails about Providence.

ENGLAND PLANNING FOR WORLD-WIDE RADIOPHONE

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Radiophone service between England and Canada, Australia, South Africa and India is expected within the next 18 months, according to F. G. Kellaway, managing director of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company.

Experiments have proved the adaptability to telephone communication of the net work of short-wave "beam" radio telegraph stations, the last of which, that to India, has been completed.

The experiments show that radio telephone conversation can be carried on simultaneously with the operation of the high-speed radio telephone services.

PROHIBITION ASSET ON U. S. SHIPS, SAYS DALTON

Washington, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Prohibition is an asset rather than a detriment to United States shipping lines, in the opinion of President Dalton of the Merchant Fleet Corporation who has returned here from a European tour.

"Personally, I would not approve of again restoring bars on United States ships, even if authorized by law," he said. "Prohibition does not retard our bookings and in many cases passengers with women and children prefer the American ships because there is no drinking at bars and there is no place on the ship that women and children cannot go."

ROXBURY GIRL WEDS WEST POINT GRADUATE

Miss Alice Daley became the bride this morning of Arthur R. Grimm, Boston College and West Point graduate and now an executive of the New York Telephone Company, at St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury. Monsignor Michael J. Splaine officiated.

The bride was attended by Mrs Gertrude Creek, sister of the groom, and Miss Daley's brother, Thomas, was best man.

WALKER TO GET HIGHER HONOR THAN LINDY

By WILLIAM P. CARNEY

Copyright, 1927, by International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York will be decorated as a commander of the Legion of Honor by the French government tomorrow, it was learned exclusively by International News Service today.

This decoration is one grade higher than that conferred on Commander Richard E. Byrd, transatlantic flier, and two grades higher than the decoration received by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh of New York to Paris fame.

The decoration ceremony will take place tomorrow afternoon during Mayor Walker's ceremonial visit to the City Hall.

The decoration entitles him to wear a large red rosette in his buttonhole and when in full dress to wear a wide red ribbon diagonally across his shirt front, in addition to the Italian decoration, a green ribbon.

"I am only a 125-pound man and my chest is hardly broad enough to wear all these decorations," Mayor Walker remarked facetiously when informed of the honor that is to be conferred upon him.

The Mayor made a solemn pilgrimage at noon today to the tomb of France's unknown soldier and placed a wreath there, standing at attention for a full minute.

"C'est un gamin, ce maire," a typical French midinette said when the Mayor alighted from his automobile, and "a boy Mayor" was the general verdict of the Paris seamstresses.

KILLS TWO AND ENDS HIS LIFE

Danbury, Ct., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The bodies of the victims of last night's triple tragedy in the City Hamlet section of this city remained today in the positions in which they fell in the living room of the home of Charles H. Bill, who, it is believed, shot his wife, Addie, and Alfred Kelly, a boarder in the Bill household, and then turned the rifle upon himself and ended his own life.

Jealousy of the attention shown the boarder by Mrs. Bill is believed to have unhinged Bill's mind, as neighbors say he has been acting strangely for several days.

Kelly accompanied Mrs. Bill to a motion picture theatre last night and police believe that while they were absent from the house, the woman's husband prepared deliberately to kill them.

The case of the rifle with which the three lives were ended, was found by the police upon a bed at the side of a window, where Bill apparently sat to watch for the return of the couple. A neighbor heard Bill call to someone as he sat at the window, "I am going to get you tonight."

NO PERMIT TO FLY; FINED

Barnstable, Sept. 14.—Harold Crowley of Winthrop, one of two aviators who figured in an airplane crash near here recently with Henry Larkin of Brookline, was fined $10 today on a charge of operating without a license. He appealed.

Larkin, who was injured and who was to appear on a similar charge, was unable to attend court, he still being confined to the Cape Cod Hospital at Hyannis. His case was continued until November 30.

WARM WEATHER, BUT NO HEAT WAVE FOR BOSTON

Though warmer weather is due tomorrow, no such heat wave as experienced in the Middle West will strike this section, according to the weather predictions today.

The barometer has risen slightly in New England and North Atlantic coast though still considered low. The high pressure area, indicating cool clear weather hovered in about the same section as yesterday, ranging from the lake regions southward to the Gulf States. The low pressure area in the West was reported moving eastward into the Mississippi valley, causing more high, uncomfortable temperatures in that section. Boston today rested comfortably around the sixty mark with a slight rise predicted for tomorrow.

RUNAWAY GIRLS FROM BELMONT ON WAY BACK

Two Belmont sisters, who ran away from home after being seized with the urge to travel, according to police, are today speeding back to Boston, penitent and disillusioned with the spirit of the great adventure.

They are Lucy and Helen Francesshelli, 13 and 21 years old, of No. 13 Underwood street, Belmont.

The pair vanished mysteriously a week ago, leaving their parents in anxiety.

Belmont police, with the help of authorities in many cities, began a search for them. The mystery was solved when their father Guy Francesshelli, Boston business man, received a letter from them today, mailed in Ohio, stating they were sorry, but well, and anxious to return. He left for New York to meet them.

SELF-ANAESTHESIA TRY KILLS NOTED SCIENTIST

Manchester, England, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The death of Dr. Sidney Rawson Wilson, noted medical scientist and surgeon, behind the locked doors of his laboratory, was generally attributed by friends and associates today to an attempt at self-anaesthesia.

Dr. Wilson was sitting lifeless before a machine for administering gas mixtures, with an anaesthetizing mask over his face, when found by his wife.

Fellow surgeons said he undoubtedly met death while carrying on his attempts to obtain and prolong the analgesic state, in which the subject loses all feeling but retains consciousness. This state now is attained but for a fleeting moment. Its prolongation was Dr. Wilson's chief ambition through years of laboratory study.

"His method," said a medical friend today, "was to subject himself to an anaesthetic and, while 'going under', he would conduct his experiments in any convenient place—in a colleague's house or at home. He made gallant efforts to record the exact time the analgesic state occurred."

Dr. Wilson held that by the strength of his own will he could repel complete unconsciousness under the influence of gas. It was his belief that only by experimenting on himself could he gather the data he sought.

50 PLANES ELIGIBLE IN SPOKANE AIR DERBIES

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Fifty airplanes were declared eligible today for the New York-Spokane air Derbies starting from Roosevelt Field next Monday and Tuesday.

Eighteen have entered in the Class A race, for larger planes, which starts at 5 a. m., Tuesday, and 32 in the Class B event to start 24 hours later. Entries in the non-stop transcontinental race, also from New York to Spokane, will close tomorrow. Six planes have thus far entered.

GIVE BANQUET FOR COUNCILLOR DOWD

Desirous of expressing appreciation of the work accomplished by City Councillor John F. Dowd, of Roxbury, in having the streets on which they do business repaired, the merchants along Washington and Dudley streets and Harrison avenue will tomorrow evening tender a complimentary banquet to the city father at the Elks Hotel. The committee is headed by George Gibbs.

FANNIE BRICE TO SUE RICH WOMAN

Chicago, Sept. 14.—One of New York's wealthiest and most prominent members of society will be sued for $250,000 on grounds of alienation of affection by Fanny Brice, America's "funniest stage woman," it was disclosed here.

The suit will be started immediately after the conclusion of Miss Brice's suit for divorce here from Jules "Nicky" Arnstein, as the name is spelled in the bill.

According to her Chicago attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, she has evidence that "Nicky"—one time inmate of the Federal prison at Leavenworth—was often with this woman, whose name of course was withheld.

"Mr. Fanny Brice," as Nicky referred to himself prior to his departure for St. Louis today, is said by the attorney to have been frequently at New York night clubs and at social functions in the company of the unnamed society woman.

The evidence is also said to prove that once Nicky took a long vacation trip to Cuba at her expense.

N. Y. GIRL TO FIGHT "DRY" CAMPAIGN AT GENEVA

Geneva, Sept 14 (A.P.).—Expressing determination to thwart attempts here to have the anti-alcohol movement introduced by Scandinavian countries developed into a move for prohibition, Miss M. Louise Gross chairman of the women's committee for modification of the Volstead act of New York, arrived at the League of Nations headquarters today.

"I and the organization I represent oppose such a policy at Geneva," she said. "We believe in temperance, but not in teetotalism. I am afraid reformers here will try the same tactics to fool the people of the world as they did in America."

Death to Pain!

CHENEY'S WINTERGREEN CREAM LINIMENT

The Indians called Wintergreen Oil "Wonderful Wintergreen," because it lubricates the joints and muscles, because it relieves neuralgia, soreness, pains of rheumatism, inflammation from sprains, burning of chilblains, neuralgic pains.

Relieves chest and bronchial inflammation preventing pneumonia and other more serious troubles.

It is delightful to use as it consists of Wintergreen Oil mixed with other valuable oils into a white creamy liniment.

It rubs in dry being completely absorbed.

Others call it wonderful. You be the judge.

ROYAL WINDSOR TAKES OFF FOR MAINE AND HOME

Harbor Grace, N. F., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—The monoplane Royal Windsor, in which Phil Wood and C. A. "Duke" Schiller had hoped to make a transatlantic crossing, hopped off from here at 5:25 o'clock Eastern Standard Time this morning for home, Windsor, Ont., by way of Nova Scotia and Old Orchard, Me.

As a farewell tribute to their fellow Canadians, Captain Terry Tully and Lieutenant James Medcalf of the ill-fated monoplane, Sir John Carling, the Windsor fliers dropped a wreath over the harbor before heading out on their course.

THOUSANDS OF TOURISTS FLEE RUSSIAN QUAKES

Moscow, Russia, Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Thousands of panic stricken tourists along the Black Sea coast today were crowding all means of transportation in order to escape from the district which has been shaken by earthquakes in the last few days.

Despatches say that thirteen persons have been killed there and 359 injured. Slighter shocks are still continuing in the region.

"KILLED IN ACTION," HE'S CALLING FOR MONEY

Scotts Bluff, Neb., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—John W. Pugh, after a decade, has stepped from the "killed in action" list, still very much wiser and with a complex problem ahead.

Pugh lost his memory in the Argonne. Besides, his right arm was so injured that he now must write with his left hand. As a result, his signature has been repudiated by the government and Pugh has been unable to collect a $4,000 indemnity.

John Pugh remains "killed in action", so far as the War Department is concerned.

CHARGES WIDOW KILLED SLIM HARRIS, RODEO STAR

Lakeview, Ore., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—After nine days' investigation Lorna Trickery, widow of Slim Harris, star rodeo performer, has been charged with murder in connection with her husband's death.

Harris was stabbed to death as he and Miss Trickery, also a winner of many rodeo prizes, were driving along a highway near here the evening of September 4. She testified at a preliminary hearing that a man jumped on the running board of their car and plunged a knife into her husband's heart.

SEES SETTLEMENT OF FRIEDA HEMPEL'S SUIT

New York, Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Settlement out of court of the suit brought by Frieda Hempel, opera singer, against August Heckscher, wealthy philanthropist, was seen today as an immediate prospect when their attorneys asked that rulings on motion now under consideration by the courts be deferred "pending outcome of informal discussions between parties and the court."

The suit was brought to compel payment of a $48,000 annuity Miss Hempel alleged Mr. Heckscher promised her.

FRANCE TO REJECT U. S. TRADE PROPOSALS

Washington, Sept. 14 (I.N.S.)—Indications were received by the State Department today that France will reject the American proposals for a most-favored-nation commercial treaty.

At the same time it was stated conditionally that the United States cannot agree to a reciprocal compromise affecting the trade relations between the two countries. Such a course would be contrary to the established policy of this government and might go far toward disturbing the present American tariff system.

DELAY IN STATE PAY RAISE IRKS YOUNGMAN

Impatient at the long delay in the granting of wage increases to State employes, State Treasurer William S. Youngman today announced that he and members of his office will work day and night and Sundays to put the increases into effect as soon as the Commission on Administration and Finance gives them out.

The question of the constitutionality of the commission, which has been the subject of attack by Youngman, does not affect the legality of the wage increases, the State treasurer said.

"For four years I have favored the increases, and have been impatient that they have been so long delayed," Youngman said today. "I agree and my whole office force agrees, that we will work day and night and Sundays, if necessary, to put the increases into effect as soon as the commission gives them out."

TOO AUTOCRATIC.

Referring to his speech made Saturday at Worcester before State Associates and Commonwealth Service Association, in annual outing, Youngman said:

"The test case that I said I would try to make against Commissioner Howard's department was this: That when the head of a department has recommended increases and the Legislature has provided money for them, and the Governor has put his signature on the bill providing this money, that the commission shall not be allowed to act autocratically as it did in 1925, when it refused to allow the heads of the departments to make up their payrolls with the increases in them.

"SECRET" MERGE PLAN.

"As to the plan of wage increases which Mr. Howard says he now has under consideration, I did not attack it because I do not know what it is. It has not been published, so far as I know, anywhere. On September 6, Mr. Howard sent me a list of positions, which he said covered all the men and women in the Treasury Department, and asked me in two days to correct the positions and the classification to which he assigned or 'allocated' each employe. Mr. Howard did not send the schedule of salaries that are to go with those poitions.

"That was what I objected to in his procedure. It is not a good business method to ask an employer to grade his employes in ignorance of what salaries are to be paid to them.

OTHERS IN DARK, TOO.

"So far as I know, all the other heads of the twenty constitutional departments of the State administration were asked in the same way to act on the commission's allocation while still in ignorance of what the salaries are to be.

"Since this commission is a new thing and not one of the twenty constitutional departments, the question has arisen as to whether the commission has the constitutional right to exist and spend so much of the taxpayers' money, which they estimate themselves at $10,000,000 a year, for State supplies, but the question of the constitutionality of the commission does not affect the legality of the wage increases."

TWO FIRE ALARMS FOR JUNK SHOP BLAZE

Two alarms were sounded for a junk shop fire at No. 457 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, when flames threatened several nearby livery stables. The blaze is believed to have been set by small boys. The damage was estimated by fire officials at about $500.

The long one-story wooden junk shop of Benny Winer was a mass of flames when first alarm apparatus arrived. It was found that more than 1500 feet of hose would be required to reach the scene.

The nearness of the livery stables and the fierceness of the flames caused District Chief Harry M. Hebbard to order a second alarm sounded.

CANADA 'TAXES' U. S. FICTION

Washington, Sept. 14 (I.N.S.).—Import duties of 25 per cent. ad valorem have been established by the Canadian government on all American and foreign magazines and periodicals devoted largely to fiction, the Commerce Department was advised today.

Scientific, critical and technical journals will continue on the Canadian free list.

The ruling will effect many American weekly and monthly periodicals, some of which have large circulation in the provinces.

BANDITS LOCK UP TWO, GET $75,000 IN GEMS

San Mateo, Cal., Sept. 14.—A jewel robbery, in which two men were said to have escaped with $75,000 in gems taken from the home of B. U. Brandt, San Francisco insurance man here, was reported to the police.

The robbers ransacked the house after locking up the servants, the only persons in the house, and escaped with 36 pieces of jewelry, the police report said.

MOSES STATES COOLIDGE SAW FIGHT AHEAD

next year alone. We can elect anybody in 1928.

HOPELESSLY DIVIDED.

"The Democrats will be hopelessly divided election day. If the Democratic nomination is again denied Al Smith, the backbone of that party the northern States will again be bodily wrenched out of their political organism and this time it can never be put back.

"If the nomination goes to Al Smith, he might carry New York, though of this I am most skeptical, but he surely would lose the border States and cannot be elected. Therefore, the election of 1928 is not my main concern.

"I want the Republican party to be in control of the administration until 1937, and I want to nominate the man who not only can be elected next year, but who can be elected in 1932. At the moment I look upon Herbert Hoover as that man."

"What, in your opinion, led to the withdrawal of Mr. Coolidge from the Presidential race?" Senator Moses was also asked.

FORESAW CONTEST.

"I am not in the confidence of Mr. Coolidge and therefore cannot answer that question with authority, but as a humble party follower I opine that Mr. Coolidge must have foreseen that he could not be renominated without a contest—and that a pretty spirited one. It was apparent that the Des Moines conference, in which 11 agricultural States were represented, that the farmer element was going to have a candidate against him.

"Mr. Coolidge is a good politician and realized that it was necessary for him to win the nomination with practical unanimity and considerable enthusiasm, and that was not possible. Even though he were nominated—and I have always maintained that he could be renominated and re-elected, but not by any 7,000,000 majority as in 1924—he would undergo four years of diminuendo, as I pointed out some time ago.

"That would not be to his liking. His trend is climbing to the peak, not sliding down hill. There is nothing more in the Presidency for him, except a record-breaking occupancy of the White House, and, as he himself said 'This is not a one-man country.' The President is a good deal wiser than some of his foot friends."

G. B. Shaw Opines 'Nobody' Won Big Naval Battle

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—George Bernard Shaw, adding his voice to the long-standing controversy over the battle of Jutland, believes that nobody won the battle, but thinks that Germany came out of the war with enhanced naval prestige.

In a letter to the Evening Standard Shaw writes:

"Nobody won the battle of Jutland and the 'our side won' of school boys in both countries need not be taken into account.

"What should make us think a little is that we went into the war with great naval prestige and Germany with none, though her military prestige was the terror of Europe. Germany came out of it with a new and very respectable naval prestige, while her miliary prestige had ceased to exist anywhere."

2,700 DEAD AND INJURED IN JAP TIDAL WAVE

Tokio, Sept. 14 (I.N.S.).—Four hundred persons were either dead or missing and 2,300 injured by the tidal wave and typhoon that struck the prefecture of Kumamoto, according to official figures today.

The towns of Kojima and Nakamura were hard hit by the tidal wave, which carried houses inland as far as two miles.

The typhoon also took a heavy property toll, uprooting trees and lines of communication and destroying many buildings.

The railroad station in Yokohama was unroofed, a warehouse in the same city was whirled high in the air, a freight train was derailed, more than 150 houses were damaged and three sections of the city were flooded by rain that accompanied the disturbance.

No accurate check has yet been made of the fishing boats that were off the coast of Kumamoto when the tidal wave struck. It is feared that many were lost.

The tail of the storm hit Tokio today and flooded several thousand houses.

1,074,000 Idle

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.)—In contrast to the improved British foreign trade situation as revealed by export and import figures just published, the number of unemployed is growing. Twenty-five thousand were added to the idle list this week, making the total 1,074,000.

MUSSOLINI HOUSEHOLD AWAITS ARRIVAL OF STORK

Bologna, Italy, Sept. 14.—Even Premier Mussolini is walking around on his tip toes in the villa near here where Professor Enrico Pestolozzi was rushed in anticipation of an impending happy event in the Duce's family.

Donna Rachele Mussolini is already the mother of three children, Edda, 17; Vittorio, 13, and Bruno, 10.

DIVIDENDS ARE SIGN BUSINESS IS GOOD

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—If American business is to be judged by s dividend disbursements, then 1927 as brought a ery satisfactory easure of prosperity. For the irst eight onths of this ear the favorale dividend anouncements of ne kind or anher have totlled 651, comared with 584 a ear ago, 432 in 925 and 369 in 924.

August again evealed a favorle comparison ith last year. A tal of 63 companies, against 57 August of last year, declared 23 xtra dividends, 15 initial dividends, stock dividends, 8 increased divinds, 5 back dividends and 1 resumed dividends.

The number of corporations that ok unfavorable dividend action was ly 9, an unusually small total. our industrial concerns omitted payents, 3 deferred payments and 2 reuced their payments. This compares with 11 in July and 19 in June, nd is, indeed, the smallest total for y month this year.

A summary of the records comiled exclusively for this column hows the following cheerful divind action by industrial, public tility and railroad companies:

	Ind.	P. U.	R. R.

Stock dividends, which were extremely popular some time ago, hen there was much talk of Govrnmental action against unduly rge surpluses, were again a ature last month among induscial enterprises. Eleven announced ock dividends ranging from the egular ¼ of 1 per cent. paid by ities Service to 100 per cent. The st was:

merican Factors, Ltd	63 2-3%
roger Grocery & Baking Co.	5%
ien Falls Insurance Co.	30%

With the single exception of arch, no month this year has comared unfavorably with that of last ear. Whether this record will be aintained during the final third f the year remains to be seen.

A rather curious circumstance is hat this increase in the number of ompanies able to treat their stockolders more generously has come t the same time that business failres have been unusually numerus, the total so far this year havng been 15,754, as compared with 4,674 last year. The explanation robably is that the smaller and eaker concerns are finding it more nd more difficult to compete sucessfully against companies and orporations of greater resources. he handwriting on the wall is that his elimination of smaller concerns will go on, and that American busiess will gravitate more and more nto the hands of larger organizaions.

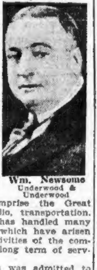
UNITED FRUIT OFFICIALS WIN PROMOTIONS

In accordance with its policy of making promotions for proven ability, the directors of the United Fruit Company at a regular meeting designated William Newsome, senior vice-president, and appointed W. K. Jackson, vice-president and general counsel and Claude D. Doswell, Matthews C. O'Hearn and Hartley Rowe, vice-presidents, with duties to be assigned by the president, Victor M. Cutter.

At the meeting Arthur E. Nicholson was elected secretary of the company—appointments to date from October 1. All of the men named have had experience with the United Fruit Company and have earned their appointments which are in line with the policy of distributing responsibility.

Their appointments constitute a step in the evolution of the company with a continuation of its policy of advancing its own men experienced in the peculiar need of the company which has resulted in efficient management.



Wm. Newsome
Underwood & Underwood

William Newsome has been identified with the United Fruit Company since its organization. He was made vice-president, December 3, 1914, but his activities extend back to 1891. He had a wide field of experience in Jamaica, sold bananas on Long Wharf, and since 1908 when he became part of the general office personnel, he has had experience in practically every activity of the Company—production, sales, the handling of the hundred ships which comprise the Great White Fleet, radio, transportation.

Mr. Newsome has handled many of the problems which have arisen in the varied activities of the company during his long term of service.

W. K. Jackson was admitted to the bar in 1908, practiced in Jacksonville, Fla., and became prosecuting attorney of the Canal Zone in 1910. He was United States District Attorney of the Canal Zone in 1910. During the war he served as a captain of chemical warfare. He has been identified with the United Fruit Company since 1922 and has efficiently handled the legal end of the company. Mr. Jackson is a L. L. B. of the University of Virginia.

HELD MANY POSTS.

Claude D. Doswell has been connected with the United Fruit Company since 1906. He was in turn stenographer, chief clerk, agent, superintendent and has had much to do with transportation work, both passenger and freight, and in the transportation of fruit.

He has accomplished a tremendous amount of work in Costa Rica and Colombia and since his transfer to the north has been mainly engaged with the production problems of the company.

W. K. Jackson, Claude D. Doswell

Matthew G. O'Hearn became identified with the United Fruit Company in 1912 as a dock clerk in Colon. He had successfully moved through the grades of clearing clerk, chief clerk, agent, general agent, division manager, manager at New York and about a year ago was made general manager of the northern domestic divisions. He is exceedingly popular in New York and has charge of the United Fruit Company activities in all northern ports.

Hartley Rowe graduated from Perdue University of Indiana in 1904. He engaged in electrical railway work for a few months and then went to the Panama Canal where he remained from November, 1904, to July, 1919. During that time he engaged in practically every phase of construction work on the great waterway.

HEADS ENGINEERS.

He was identified with the mechanical engineering department, electrical engineering, water supply, building construction, in which were included hospitals, the submarine base and the airport and during the progress of the World War he was practically chief engineer of this important station.

M. C. O'Hearn Hartley Rowe

In 1919, Mr. Rowe returned to this country and became New England manager for Lockwood Greene & Co., Inc. He joined the United Fruit Company in April, 1926, as chief engineer and in addition assumed charge of the research department. Mr. Rowe is chairman of the Boston Section Institute of Electrical Engineers and is also identified with the American Association of Mechanical Engineers.

Arthur E. Nicholson has been identified with the United Fruit Company since 1905. He has held the office of assistant secretary, assistant general auditor, assistant treasurer, and his promotion to the office of secretary of the company is a recognition of twenty-two years of conscientious work in the company's behalf.

away with "solid matter"—only electrons, revolving at a horrible rate of speed, are left.

Now you learn that terra firma is a delusion. Dr. Lambert of the Coast Survey says the crust of the earth moves up and down with a rising and falling tide, as does the ocean.

Continents slip around on the hard inside core of the earth. South America was once joined to Africa.

Scientists have perfected instruments that will measure within one billionth of an inch width and one millionth of a degree of temperature. We are gradually learning about everything, almost too much for our feeble minds. In the last 127 years men have learned more than they learned in the 500,000 years preceding A. D. 1800.

The American Historical Preservation Society yesterday sold at auction the house in which President Monroe died in New York ninety-six years ago. It didn't seem worth while to preserve the place, which sold for $10,000. Many hope that the Monroe Doctrine will be preserved however; that no League of Nations nonsense will be allowed to interfere with it, and that a nation strong enough to back up that doctrine nearly a hundred years ago is not too weak to maintain it now.

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADOS

TEMPTING offers and luscious plums come to him (or we) who writes. When we say something nice about somebody's broadcast they telephone us and thank us. When we don't say anything nice they call us anyhow. Many a letter comes thanking us when we have suggested how to fix an ailing radio.

Some of the thank-you letters offer us a glass of cider. We get offers to dinners and luncheons. They call us up to drive us to the beach. Every once in a while we open our mail to find a pass to a picture theatre. The pass reads "No good on Sundays, Saturdays or holidays."

Invariably the pass is accompanied by some publicity matter that if printed at regular advertising rates would cost the theatre about $100.

If receiving a package of food, a book or a pass should make us feel like giving an unwarranted merit, why not extend the idea further? For instance, Cadillac and Packard, and Buick and LaSalle have all had radio broadcasts.

When we think of our own car, which is rapidly assuming the tonal qualities of a steam roller, we would feel greatly tempted at finding a shiny twin-eight at our front door. But instead of bribing us with a new coupe, we only find grease spots in front of our door.

The most sincere offers come from our customers. Every little while some one with the best set in the world wants us to hear it. So we are dragged out to Everett or Hingham or Lexington to listen to somebody play his five cones at once. Our host usually piles on the food and drink freely and once we got a motor boat ride. But it made us sea sick.

Young boys come to us for information. They are shy and scoot out quickly. Not so with some older folks. Once a week we have received visits from an old-timer who apparently would like to bring his lunch for he hangs and hangs and stays talking radio. However, it always worked out so that he would take us to lunch.

• • •

Women come in occasionally, altogether too unfrequently. We broadcast a plea for more customers. They are usually muddled about what they want but before they leave we have given them the information. Patience alone does it.

NEW DODGE CAR IS SMART

A beautiful cabriolet roadster is the third body type in the Dodge Brothers new line of fours. It is introduced by the Henshaw Motor Company as a companion car to the sedan and coupe which already have attained widespread popularity since their recent advent.

"This cabriolet is typical of the new spirit which has characterized every car introduced this year by Dodge Brothers and is suggestive of the pep and enthusiasm of youth declares C. S. Henshaw. "Its armory green body, low-hung and with the implication of great speed, is attractively designed and makes it fully as striking as anything on the road."

"Performance is entirely in keeping with the smart appearance of the car. Few cars can match it in acceleration—0 to 25 miles per hour, through gears, in less than seven seconds—and no American four car pass it on the road.

8 DIE OF HEAT IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The midwest looked in vain today for relief from the three-day heat wave. Reports of many deaths and of rising temperatures which are making this month the hottest September in Weather Bureau history came from all parts of the west central states. Only four cities reported their temperatures as being under 90 degrees.

Eight deaths were reported here, where the mercury touched 95 degrees, equalling the all-time record for September established in 1900. Abilene, Tex., was the hottest spot in the United States yesterday, the mercury rising to an even 100 degrees.

Henry J. Cox, government meteorologist here, said: "I see at least three more days of this heat, and no relief in sight."

Depend upon it, a lucky guess is never merely luck—there is always some talent in it. —Austen.

Pick your pen point by Color!

Red—STANDARD—Suits most writers. A splendid correspondence point. Medium flexibility. For home and general use.

Green—RIGID—Tempered to armor plate hardness. Will not shade even under heavy pressure. Unequaled for manifolding. The salesman's friend.

Purple—STIFF; FINE—Writes without pressure. Makes a thin, clear line and small figures with unerring accuracy. Popular with accountants.

Pink—FLEXIBLE; FINE—As soft as a watch-spring. Fine, tapered point ground fine to shade at any angle. Loved by stenographers.

Blue—BLUNT—An improved stub point. This point makes a broad line. May be held in any position. Liked by rapid writers.

Yellow—ROUNDED—A different pen point. The tip is ball shape. Makes a heavy, characteristic line without pressure. Suits left-handed writers.

The Color Band on the Holder tells the story. It indicates at a glance whether the pen point is fine or coarse, stiff or flexible. It enables you to quickly choose a pen point exactly suited to your writing.

Betty Bronson Is Co-Star With Monte Blue

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Betty Bronson, whose sprightly elfish "Peter Pan" brought her into notice a few years ago, is leaving Paramount. The little girl who tried to "Peter Pan" her way into continued popularity has signed a contract with Warner Brothers to appear as a co-star with Monte Blue in "The Come Back."

Betty, who is only eighteen, has been blamed perhaps unfairly for a series of mediocre pictures. Yet, often it is not the star who should be censured. Nine times out of ten she must do as she is told. At any rate the change to the Warner lot may be an advantageous one.

Monte Blue is a good actor. He does not try to occupy the center of the stage, and his pictures are popular. "The Come Back" is said to afford the little Bronson girl the right opportunity, and we hear she will forget "Peter Pan." That's what she should do.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER has purchased "Laugh Clown Laugh" from United Artists. This purchase seems to me to augur that we shall see a working arrangement between these two companies in the future that will mean an imposing array of directors, scenario writers and stars.

The assets of the two companies is tremendous and with Nicholas Schenck head of M-G-M and Joseph Schenck boss of United Artists it is reasonable to assume the two brothers will work together.

That, I think is proved in the arrangement made whereby Herbert Brenon has been loaned to M-G-M by U. A. to direct "Laugh Clown Laugh" and Nils Asther to play the male lead.

JUST a word about Nils Asther, who in addition to being the fiance of Vivian Duncan, seems to have established himself pretty thoroughly in the minds of the Hollywood producers.

"Sorrell and Son," directed by Herbert Brenon, was shown in Hollywood the other night and a report comes back to me that it is another "Stella Dallas" with all the pathos, drama and tugs at the heart strings.

Nils, it is said, has scored another success. He seems to be getting many of the choice roles. For instance, he is now playing opposite Pola Negri in "Rachel," and Pola, you will agree, picks them carefully.

FAY WRAY does not seem to be getting such a good break after all. She was playing small parts at Universal when Erich Von Stroheim saw her and chose her for the lead in "The Wedding March." That was over a year ago and since that time very little has been heard of her.

Working as a Von Stroheim star has its disadvantages for it means practically retiring from the limelight, since it takes at least a year for any of his pictures to make its appearance. Now comes word that Fay Wray has been chosen to play the feminine lead in "The Legion of the Condemned," by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings."

Miss Wray is a nice child and let's hope this picture gets in circulation soon. Gary Cooper will play opposite her and work will be started under the direction of William Wellman. Yes, he is the same one who directed "Wings."

WHILE I am on the subject of Erich Von Stroheim, I received a letter the other day calling me to account for a criticism of him. Says my correspondent:

"When has he ever made a picture that has not made money?"

Let us ask Carl Laemmle, he can answer that question better than I can.

APPARENTLY going into society was too much for Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton. They had rather face lions in a jungle instead of doing a comedy on "We're in Society." Their next will be "The Big Game Hunt," by Grover Jones and Keene Thompson.

List to this. Lion hunting in Darkest Africa. I wonder if they will go to the Gay's lion farm and do their stuff with Numa and the other ninety-two lions there. I would rather it be they than me. This picture is their fifth and Frank Strayer directs.

FRANK LLOYD asks me to correct the impression that he and Joseph Schenck and John Barrymore are not on good terms. In fact, Mr. Lloyd, who is resting at his Whittier ranch, says the most friendly relations prevail.

"The reason," says Mr. Lloyd, "that I withdraw is because I did not approve of the revised script of 'The Tempest' and I felt I could not do justice to either Barrymore or Schenck."

Mr. Lloyd says he has made no definite arrangement with Fox or any other company. Joseph Schenck also sends word that he has had no trouble with Frank Lloyd. So that's that.

BARRETT KEISLING, who has been with the Cecil DeMille organization since it was a pup, has resigned. Just that bald statement comes over the wire. What happened I do not know. The only explanation given is that Barrett is going into the commercial publicity game.

I am inclined to think it must have been a disagreement for there has been no one in the DeMille organization who has done more to promote it than he. Furthermore, he has earned his salary not only by presiding at innumerable dinners and getting indigestion by making speeches.

EASY STEERING FOUND IN NEW NASH MODELS

Easy, "fast" steering, long a characteristic of Nash cars, is even more evident in the 21 new models recently introduced.

"Nash engineers have concentrated on overcoming the "drag" of low pressure tires on the road, without resorting to the expedient of changing the gearings so that the steering wheel must be turned through a long arc in order to turn the front wheels," states C. P. Rockwell, New England distributor. The Nash front wheels may be cramped by little more than a single turn of the steering wheel. This has been accomplished at no sacrifice to easy steering, since it requires no more effort than was needed when old-style high pressure tires were used."

CADILLAC SHOW DRAWS MANY

The Cadillac-LaSalle style salon, which is being held at the show rooms of the Cadillac Automobile Company of Boston to introduce Cadillac's latest and greatest achievement, the new series 315 Cadillac, has been the Mecca for thousands of interested motorists during the last four days.

On Wednesday, a pre-presentation of the new Cadillac was given and careful count showed that more than 1,800 people visited the Cadillac show rooms during the day and evening.

President Albion L. Danforth of the Boston Cadillac Company is tremendously enthusiastic over the new product given him to distribute by the Cadillac factory. "The new Cadillac," says Mr. Danforth, "is without a doubt, the finest motor car America has ever seen.

"When I first saw the new Cadillac my impression was, 'Here is a $10,000 car if I ever saw one.' You can imagine my surprise, then, when I learned that the actual prices were away below my expectations.

"The bodies in particular," he continued, "are marvels of beautiful lines, smart design and complete, comfortable equipment. For instance, the back of the driver's seat is adjustable. A turn of a little screw on top of the seat back slides the back toward or away from the steering wheel. Short people or tall can drive this new Cadillac with equal ease.

"The whole air of the new Cadillac is one of great beauty, decided smartness and long, low comfort.

"We extend a cordial invitation to everybody to visit our show rooms during the Cadillac-LaSalle style salon."

DRIVES WHIPPET 894 MILES IN 24 HOURS

Driving a Whippet 894 miles through a storm over mountainous highways, in less than 24 hours is the accomplishment reported by Joe Lusignan, of Stockton, Cal., in a round trip from that city to Grant's Pass, Ore. Lusignan, despite the adverse road and weather conditions encountered, maintained an averge speed of 42 miles an hour on the perilous trip.

In describing the journey, Lusignan said, "Mile after mile and hour after hour we ran the motor at practically top speed, making Sacramento, a distance of 60 miles in one hour and one minute. We kept the throttle wide open and were able to keep up a fine rate of speed, even on the dangerous curves for the Whippet four-wheel brakes responded to every touch."

FEAR HUNDREDS DEAD IN MEXICO

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 14 (A. P.).—The collapse of communication both by telegraph and railway today kept from the world details of wholesale death and destruction believed to have been caused by a storm that for three days last week lashed a thousand miles of the west coast of Mexico.

Officials of the Southern Pacific of Mexico Railroad reported that no train connections with Mexico City or Southern coast points would be made today. Guaymas, Sonora, main seaport of the west coast of Mexico, is the northernmost coast point on the Southern Pacific of Mexico. Below that point communication was virtually impossible.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL.

Meager reports said that the death toll in Salina Cruz and Manzanillo, both important west coast seaports, was enormous.

Salina Cruz, port town of the State of Oaxaca, was said to be in ruins and it was believed the loss of life ashore and at sea might run into hundreds.

Twenty-five breakers tore across the waterfront and rolled far into the town.

TWO SHIPS MISSING.

Two ships of the National Line, the Jalisco and the Navajjoa, were reported missing and there were fears for the safety of the fishing fleet which put out from Mazatlan, Sinaloa.

Radio messages from the liner City of Panama told of the ship putting into Mazatlan after riding out the storm. The ship's surgeon aided in relief work there. The liner Corinto also was ordered to proceed to the relief of Mazatlan, indicating the loss there might exceed that indicated in dispatches received overland.

NEW CHEVROLET SALES RECORD IS PREDICTED

Enthusiastic response from more than 750 dealers and salesmen from all over New England greeted Mr. R. H. Grant, vice-president, in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor Company at a business meeting in the Hotel Somerset, when he spoke of the prominent position held by Chevrolet in the automobile field.

Mr. Grant in closing the meeting said, "I predict more sales for Chevrolet in the coming year than we enjoyed last year. Chevrolet's position cannot be threatened. A million cars in 1927-28 is our goal and every indication is that we are well on our way toward that goal."

LINDBERGH'S VISIT BOOMED AIR MAIL

Hartford, Ct., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Since Charles A. Lindbergh honored this city by making it the first stopping place in his nation-wide tour outgoing air mail has increased to such an extent that the postal authorities have been forced to devise and install a new rack to make separation of the air mail at the Hadley Field, N. J., terminal easier

KILL COMMUNIST WHO SHOOTS AT FASCISTI

London, Sept. 14 (A.P.)—A Reuter dispatch from Renna, Italy, says that a Communist, who subsequently was killed, today fired several revolver shots at a group of officers of the Fascisti militia there, seriously wounding the commandant of the 81st Legion.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. West opens the King of Diamonds, rather than his partner's Spades, to establish a trick in Diamonds while still holding his probably sure entry in the King of trumps.

Trick 2. Declarer attempts the Heart finesse. If he finds the King and only one other in East's hand, he can pick up all the trumps, following which a successful Club finesse would give him a Grand Slam. This the Declarer determines to attempt, since even if his plan miscarries game is apparently not in danger. As it turned out, the failure of the trump finesse and the unusual distribution of the Club suit not only prevented the making a Slam, or even game, but set his contract by one trick. Of course, such a disastrous outcome could not be imagined by North, who was fully justified in making his play for a Slam.

Trick 3. West notes that but two Clubs are missing from his own hand and Dummy's. Declarer's refusal to lead Clubs when in Dummy with the Ace of Diamonds, the only entry in the Dummy other than Clubs, West takes as a certain indication that Declarer holds one or both of the missing cards, since otherwise his opportunity to discard on the high Clubs would not have been neglected. Accordingly West leads a Club to kill Dummy's hand if Declarer holds but one of the Clubs, or to give East a ruff if Declarer holds both of them.

NO VESTED RUM GOES IN LYNN

Woman Tries to Fool Raiders, but Full-Dress Garment Has Gurgling Habit

Vests for high-proof evening wear went out of mode today in Lynn Court, due mainly to the mournful discovery by Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson that they come high, even if not fitted that way, and cost $200 per garment.

Mrs. Thompson, forty-five, barely eased by a three-months sentence at that, but Judge Reeve suspended it and she went back home to Charles street without her vest and with a vow to hold aloof from such garments in the future, come what may and whatever the other well or not so well, dressed women may be wearing.

TRAPPED BY POLICE.

The trouble with Mrs. Thompson's truly smart but rarely feminine garment was that it held liquor, and Mrs. Thompson admitted this guilelessly in court when she was arraigned for keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

Of course, it was a bit of boorishness verging on the clumsy that put Mrs. Thompson out of the moment's vogue, but policemen must be clumsy sometimes to accumulate the effect.

It seems Mrs. Thompson had been suspected of liquor selling; in fact, she had been in before. So the Lynn liquor squad sent in an emissary to make a purchase, which he did.

Then the liquor squad went into the house, to be greeted kindly, if not too cordially, by the hostess. Search as they would, however, no liquor was found.

HEAR A GURGLE.

It came then to the mind of one of the visitors that a kimono was no garment for a lady to be wearing without purpose in receiving unexpected visitors in the evening. So he bumped—of course, accidentally—against Mrs. Thompson and was rewarded by a gurgling sound.

Quips and pleasantries of a happy nature followed and when Mrs. Thompson coyly revealed her vest with five pint bottles of liquor in the pockets, the laughter became general and it was decided to go to court.

His Own Sleuth

ON TWO-DAY HUNT
George Toothaker, manager of gasoline station at Broadway and Albany streets, after his safe had been robbed, started out to get his man, but the latter was freed today as innocent.

SUSPECT FREED IN HOLDUP OF GAS STATION

A two-day hunt for a gasoline station robber suspect by a manager-victim who acted as his own sleuth and ended with the arrest of the suspect in Cambridge, went for naught today when Boston police officers decided he was not wanted and he was set free.

The amateur sleuth was George R. Toothaker of No. 31 Jackson street, Everett, manager of a Standard Oil gasoline station at Broadway and Albany streets, South Boston. About a week ago the safe in Toothaker's office was robbed of $34. He suspected one of two customers.

Remembering the registration number of the machine, he traced the suspect to Cambridge. After two days' hunting in that city he thought he found his man.

The suspect was pointed out to a traffic officer in Central square and he was taken into custody yesterday, only to be released today when Boston officers decided they did not want him.

WANTS HIM TO REMAIN IN JAIL

Says He Can Get Out for the G. A. R. Encampment by Paying Back Alimony Due

Patrick L. Kennedy, 79-year-old Civil War veteran of field and home, will get no furlough from jail at Franklin, N. H., to attend the G. A. R. encampment, if his former wife in Medford can prevent it.

The wife, Mrs. Martha J. Kennedy of No. 21 Gibson street, Medford nineteen years his junior, was instrumental in having Kennedy jailed for contempt of court in neglecting to pay her alimony for many months back.

Learning today that Kennedy had been elected a delegate to the encampment at Grand Rapids, Mich., and that members of his famous Massachusetts regiment intend to appeal to Governor Spaulding of New Hampshire for his release, Mrs. Kennedy declared:

HE MUST PAY $680.

"I will oppose any attempt to have Governor Spaulding give my husband a reprieve. He owes me $680 alimony, and if he wants to get out, all he has to do is pay me.

"For the first years of our married life he was a fine husband, but he had horses that didn't win races. He lost considerable of his money. That caused him to take to drink. I know also that he has given away about $80,000.

"He has money enough yet though, but his stubbornness in refusing to pay my alimony is what is keeping him in jail.

"I left him 13 years when I had eight children. I have had to support them always and he can easily pay me the $25 a month which the court has ordered."

HALED INTO COURT.

When haled into court Kennedy was ordered to pay not only the $25 a month but $630 in back payments. Kennedy declares that the $70 pension he receives monthly is his sole income and furthermore, that he does not feel that he should use a government war pension to pay alimony to his divorced wife. The court decided against him and gave him time to pay or be in contempt.

Kennedy was born in Ireland. He came to America when young and enlisted with a Massachusetts volunteer regiment during the struggle between the North and South. After the Civil War he opened a hotel in Franklin, which he maintained for a number of years.

SENT TO DAUGHTERS.

He sold out the hotel some time ago to a syndicate on this basis, that he receive an income of $75 a month from the purchasers for life. He assigned $50 of that, a month, to a daughter in California and $25 to another daughter in Reading, Pa., he said.

The veteran has figured prominently in the news several times. Some years ago he erected a mausoleum in the cemetery at Franklin, which is quite a novelty. Within the tomb he hung the pictures of two of his heroes, Colonel Bob Ingersoll and Tom Paine.

He also installed his own photograph and arranged the last resting place so that during the Summer months visitors could look inside the tomb at the photographs.

On another occasion, his former wife gave permission for the burial of an old servitor of the hotel in the family lot in the cemetery. Kennedy objected and had the body removed from the lot and transferred to another burial place.

It's "Gimme" When American Sees the Big Eats

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—The average American eats more than any other person in the world, and his fare is "coarse and vulgar food," in the opinion of L. W. Huillery, Chicago chef, attending a meeting of catering managers of leading hotels.

The American, he said, is no epicure, because "he has no food that develops a fastidious taste."

"Give the average American beef steak, or ham, potatoes and cabbage and he is contented," he concluded.

DIVE INTO FALLS KILLS WOMAN

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—A woman leaped from the Goat Island bridge into the upper rapids today and was swept to death over the American Falls.

Witnesses of her leap of death found on the bridge a trolley excursion circular on which had been scratched with a pin in several places the following name and address:

"Jessie S. Biggar, No. 22 Linwood terrace, Buffalo; telephone Bidwell 2514-J."

Witnesses said the woman was about 50 years old with gray hair. She left a tan coat with fur collar on the bridge and near the coat was found a pair of tortoise-shell rim glasses.

Throngs of tourists were at Prospect Point as the body passed over the brink. It was partly submerged as it took the plunge.

Joseph Di Camillo, a tourist guide, noticed the woman on the bridge and spoke with her saying the water seemed to have a certain fascination.

"It has," she replied, "especially when you are waiting for friends."

Di Camillo asked where her friends were and she said they were at a hotel and she expected them shortly. Then she jumped.

Indict "Triangle" Slayer

Flemington, N. J., Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Charles Price, white-haired truck driver of Lambertville, who shot and killed Edward Musterson when he found him buggy riding with Price's young wife, has been indicted for murder by the Hunterdon County grand jury.

NEW HAVEN IS WELL BOUGHT

With reference to the disapproval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the proposed Morgan underwriting of the New Haven issue of $49,036,700 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, the railroad officials say subscriptions for the new preferred stock are being steadily received from stockholders and from holders of the $39,029,000 6 per cent. convertible debentures due January 15, 1948. They have until October 1 to subscribe.

At that time tabulation will be made to see what proportion of the preferred stock has been subscribed for.

It will then be necessary to formulate smoe plan for disposition of the unsold balance, if any. The road's position, however, is that that bridge will be crossed when it come to it.

BOY STUNG 108 TIMES AS HE PLAYS NEAR BEES

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 1. (A.P.)—Billy Wheeler, three, who lives on a farm near Kenosha, was stung 108 times when he wandered too near a beehive. He was playing with his police dog when the bees attacked him in a swarm. The dog tried vainly to fight off the bees. The boy's condition is serious.

E. W. Taylor Dies

Athol, Sept. 14 (A.P.).—Ernest W. Taylor, assistant treasurer and director of the Starrett Tool Company, died today at the age of 41.

7 ARRESTED AFTER CRASH ON CROSSING; 31 INJURED

Weehawken, N. J., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Seven men were held today in bail aggregating $50,000 following a collision at a doubly safeguarded crossing between a freight engine and a trolley car in which 31 persons were injured, two perhaps mortally.

Those arrested after the crash comprised the crew of the locomotive, the railroad towerman and the operator of the one-man trolley, the latter being under custody in a hospital. The towerman and the crossing gates failed to work. The switchman, whose duty it was to derail the trolley if there was not a clear track ahead, could not be found.

A Real Drama of Intrigue in Boston Theatrical Life After Curtain

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Becky McCloskey, young, good-looking, trying to make her way alone in Boston, finds herself without a position on New Year's Eve. Dan Scarlett, who lives by his wits, sees her huddled in a doorway and persuades her to go to dinner with him. He kisses her. She slaps his face and threatens to brain him with a bottle. Becky sings a little song for him. Scarlett realizes that she has a beautiful voice and makes a bargain to finance her until she gets started if she will let him share her profits.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 3

BECKY McCLOSKEY'S modest domicile is in one of those unobtrusive thoroughfares which thread the South End above Dover street. Named for a once illustrious personage, its eastern-most end is still occupied by dwellings of some comfort. But the dismal house in which one cubicle was allotted to Becky was old and out of repair.

Many a time had Becky, hurrying home pursued by the echoes of her own footsteps, consoled herself by reiterating in a whisper: "I haven't nothing for 'em to steal . . . I'm perfectly safe . . . I haven't a thing they'd want."

But tonight she walked with a swing to her step and a glow on her cheeks. Tonight she hoped. Becky smiled confidently. What matter that yesterday she went hungry? Now she had been fed, and tomorrow she was to have her great chance, the chance for which she had not dared to hope, the chance to be heard, to sing!

She climbed the slippery stairs of the old house gaily, her head in the air, singing under her breath:

"I'll have stockings of silk,
Shoes of fine green leather,
Combs to buckle my hair,
And a ring for every finger . . ."

On the top step she slipped, the crooked heel of her right shoe snapped in the middle, and Becky picking herself up concluded her song with the ironic epilogue: "I guess all that's a long way off yet."

So Becky came to the fourth floor back, and turned a loose door-knob, and came into her home. There she lighted the stub of a candle—for candles were cheaper than gas—and, bending down, called softly: "Here Kitty, Kitty, Kitty."

It was not cheering this room. There was something bleak, even something forbidden in the decayed remnants of tawdry splendor.

Where bright curtains had been there was now a frayed green shade. The wallpaper, covered with bouquets of hideous roses in maroon and greenish-yellow, had peeled from the walls in some places, while in others the flowers, of a color that was no more fast than it was pretty, had faded or smeared.

JACK AND LEO STILL PARTNERS

Flynn Gives Lie to Report That He Will Break With Dempsey

By LEO P. FLYNN
Manager of Jack Dempsey

Chicago, Sept. 14—Probably the most vicious angle in the coming fight between Dempsey and Tunney is the propaganda being sent around that Jack and I are about to sever relations as fighter and manager.

That is the silliest, most uncalled for thing I ever heard. The fact is that we are the closest of friends and I have Jack's confidence and he has mine.

I know who is starting this talk. In the first place, there was some discussion as to the Sharkey fight and who deserved credit for getting Dempsey in shape to score that great victory.

Right after the bout Dempsey was shown some newspaper clippings, in which various persons were given praise for Dempsey's triumph. Jack was a bit annoyed and told the newspaper men that he gave me the credit and no one else.

I told Jack not to mind, that it didn't hurt me a bit and surely didn't hurt him, and that some of the boys wanted a bit of publicity.

"Never mind that," Jack answered "You got me in shape and you coached me and trained me, and you alone deserve the credit and shall have it.

Right away, word went around that there was dissension among Dempsey's assistants, all based on this very simple situation about the Sharkey fight. Now, I never had any run in with Gus Wilson, Dempsey's friend and one of his advisors Dempsey made it plain that I was to run his camp, draw on any money that I saw fit and was to be accountable to no one.

Now, as to the Martin Burke matter. Burke had worked with Jack in several fights. He was and is a splendid fellow and a great sparring partner. No one admires Burke any more than I do. But he is a close friend of one of Tunney's confidential advisors.

With such an important battle in the offing, and with so many ill-advised suspicions directed toward a big bout, wouldn't we be rather silly to run any possible risks of friends confiding in each other? I think so.

I would give anything to have Burke's services and so would Dempsey. But although we know Burke is honorable and loyal, it is best not to let ourselves open to idle talk by others. So I thought it best to let Burke go and Dempsey is not mad over that at all. Dempsey is one of the most sensible men I ever met.

As to the money Dempsey is supposed to be paying me, there has been no squabble. Neither have Rickard and I had any dispute whatsoever as to money or anything else.

I was represented in the press as having been given $50,000 for this fight and $10,000 for the Sharkey fight. Well, the boys are about $100,000 off in that estimate.

If I thought for a minute that I was handicapping Dempsey or that I was not wanted in his camp, I should step aside immediately.

FRENCH STARS BATTLE U. S. NET HOPES

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 14 (A.P.)—Sixteen of the world's greatest tennis players, including the four French Davis Cup winners, a Belgian and a Canadian, today remained in the running for the turf court championship of the United States now held by the Frenchman, Rene LaCoste.

To resist a foreign attempt to take the title out of the country for the second time in two years there survived a group of eight Americans headed by William T. Tilden and two players from other lands who now make the United States their home

Each of the French meets an American opponent, Henri Cochet facing John Hennessy of Indianapolis, Jean Borotra playing Jerry Lang of New York, Jacques Brugnon opposing Arnold Jones, former Yale captain, and La Coste taking on Takeichi Harada, Japanese, now living in New York, who ranks third in the United States

Other international tilts pit Francis T. Hunter, Tilden's Davis Cup doubles partner, against Jean Washer, Belgian champion, and "Little Bill" Johnston against Jack Wright, Canadian ace.

Tilden's match against Elmer Griffin of New York will be the only strictly domestic battle on the program, as in the other match John Van Ryn, Princeton No. 1 man, meets Manuel Alonzo, who lives in Philadelphia and is ranked second in the United States, but learned his tennis in Spain.

HARLOW OF CAMBRIDGE OUT FOR THE SEASON

Fred Harlow, captain and quarterback of the Cambridge High and Latin School football team, will be missing at the start of the season and probably the entire season, as he was found to be suffering from a severe nervous breakdown, on his return from Maine, where he was playing baseball.

As yet no action has been taken to elect a new leader, and none will be taken until it is definitely known that Fred will be unable to play.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"I NOTICE where my friend, Joe Woodman, is back in the heavyweight play," remarked Mr. Boston today. "Joe will be behind Tom Sayers, sensational young Detroit heavyweight, when that worthy steps to bat with Jimmy Maloney in the feature ten-round bout of the Suffolk A. A.'s 50-50 show at the New Boston Arena next Monday night.

"Fifteen years ago Woodman was one of the most prominent managers of boxers in the world. He cared for the business affairs of the illustrious Sam Langford. I'll admit it didn't require much matchmaking ability to bring the 'Tar Baby' along. All Joe had to concern himself with was his share of the purse and the date of the contest. Such little things like opponents didn't matter when one was managing Langford. You could toss 'Ho Ho' in with the best of them and he'd leave the ring smiling, while the other fellow's seconds lugged their men to the dressing room.

"Langford's only drawback in the boxing game was his color. If he had been a white man, he might have become world's heavyweight champion.

"Woodman has always yearned to get hold of a white heavyweight who was about half as good as Langford. He has felt that such a man wouldn't find much trouble in battering his way to a world's championship.

"Two years ago it looked as though Woodman had struck fistic gold when he discovered King Solomon. He had the King in with Jack Sharkey and Jimmy Maloney at Braves Field and he looked the part of a great fighter. Then he met his reverses.

"WOODMAN now comes back with a new heavyweight whom keen judges of boxing like Jim Buckley, former manager of Gunboat Smith, and George Lawrence, pilot of a flock of foreign battlers, considers the most promising young heavyweight to come to the front in several years. He is Tom Sayers, the Detroit sensation.

"Sayers, a youth of 21, didn't experience much trouble in winning the heavyweight championship of the Middle West. His terrific punching ability sent 16 out of 26 opponents out of the picture by the kayo route. The others lost decisions. Only one boxer has outpointed Sayers which is quite a record for a young man who has been in the fistic wars for only two years.

"I have seen Sayers in action. He is straight and tall and has a tremendous right hand sock. I think Mister Woodman figures that the right hand wallop will give Sayers a victory in the battle at the Arena on next Monday night.

"WOODMAN, a keen judge of heavyweights, knows Maloney's weaknesses probably better than anybody else with the possible exception of Jack Sharkey. I sat in at breakfast with Woodman and King Solomon the morning of the second Maloney-Solomon bout at Braves Field.

"'I'll tell you how to beat Maloney,' Woodman told the King. 'For Jim to knock anybody out the other fellow must be running away from him. This enables him to get over a full right hand swing.

"'When the gong sounds tonight, I want you to carry the fight to Maloney. Keep crowding him and don't give him a chance to get set. Meanwhile keep your right hand popping for his jaw. Maloney, King, has a glass jaw and I know you can stop him inside of three rounds if you follow instructions.'

"Solomon fought as directed and only a technicality robbed him of a knockout. Harry Kelley jumped into the ring after the contest ended and called Referee Johnny Brassill's attention to the fact that the final blow had been delivered after the bell sounded for the end of the round. So Maloney got the verdict on a foul.

"I CAN picture Woodman giving Sayers his last minute instructions next Monday night.

"'Keep crowding him, Tom,' he'll say. 'Don't give him a chance to set and keep punching him on his brittle jaw. Then you'll have Knockout No. 17.'

"I have always believed that a ring battle well planned is half won. With Joe Woodman directing his affairs, Sayers' plan of action will certainly be well planned."

JACK TRAINS AT NIGHT TO HELP EYES

By JACK DEMPSEY

Copyright, 1927, King Features Synd., Inc.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 14.—It's all true that I am doing some secret workouts at night and that I will continue doing a few of them until I'm all through training up for the Tunney fight.

The reason I had powerful lights installed over the ring at my Lincoln Field camp and have done my boxing there is to accustom my eyes to the light.

When a man trains in the sunlight all the time and then goes to fight at night, under artificial light, everything looks strange for a few rounds.

There are lots of shadows and strange angles and it takes quite a while to get accustomed to them.

I have found that so in the Sharkey fight and the first one with Tunney. In both these fights I got away to bad starts.

Sharkey nailed me with a solid punch in the first round, so did Tunney. I'll give the boys all the credit due them, but I'll still feel that the strange light affected my eyesight at the start and it was several rounds before I could get used to the glare.

Buffalo Makes Plan for "World Series"

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14 (I.N.S.).—The Buffalo Bisons had clinched the International League pennant today and will meet the winner of the American Association flag in the "Little World's Series." Buffalo defeated Rochester here, 12 to 3, and sewed up the pennant.

Britton Meets Knapp

New York, Sept. 14.—Joey Knapp, former amateur champ, will oppose the veteran Jack Britton, former world's welterweight champ, in the stellar bout of ten rounds at the St. Nicholas Arena Monday night Britton is fresh from a victory over Irish Tommy Jordan.

Inside Golf

By Chester Horton

When you press forward with the body ahead of the club you can rob the clubhead of its speed either by going forward or by lunging downward, toward the ball, as often happens. This indicates a particularly aggravated case of lunging. A good way to observe a rhythmic forward swinging of the club is to put it to the top of the back swing and then, as you stand almost wholly on the right leg, work the club forward, meantime keeping on the right leg position just as long as you can. Try that a few times and you will immediately observe how greatly the clubhead speeds up through the ball. Then try it on a ball and see how much better the ball goes. Of course you do not remain on the right leg until that position becomes awkward and strained. You will instinctively go through with the club—there is a moment when the body goes forward. At that time, let it go and the action will be smooth and rhythmic.

HARRISS DUE TO OPPOSE ST. LOUIS

Slim Harriss, the string bean right hander of the Carrigan forces, is due to take the firing line this afternoon in the third game of the series with the St. Louis Browns.

The neat way the Red Sox came from behind and grabbed both games of the double-header indicates trouble for the Howley clan in the single games this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon.

The Browns didn't look any too hot losing both ends of the twin bill. The weak appearance of the Browns can in no way be attributed to the management of Howley. It looks as if Dan has drawn a sour heritage. The Browns have a few players who have been with the team a bit too long and a big shake-up in the team is due.

Danny MacFayden the popular and effective right hander is not going to be overlooked by his Somerville friends.

Danny has done considerable to keep Somerville on the sport pages during his scholastic and big league career. Pie Traynor and Francis Hogan, his brother townsmen have been honored by Somerville citizens.

Saturday will be MacFayden Day at Fenway Park when the Red Sox play a double-header with the Detroit Tigers. The Somerville rooters plan to present MacFayden a handsome new Buick brougham.

Danny deserves anything he gets. He's been a credit to Somerville and the Red Sox.

Day Before a Fight Always Seems a Million Years Long to Dempsey

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—I'd rather fight 200 rounds against the toughest battlers in the world than live through the 24 hours that precede a battle in which I am going to figure.

The day before the fight seems to be a million years long with nerves tensed all the time, with the mind full of worries and with nothing seeming to help do any of this cheering up stuff.

Very often I felt that maybe I was an exception in this thing; that I was the only fighter who felt that way. But I've talked to a lot of the great ones in my own game and they all feel about the same way.

Jim Corbett often has told me that he'd get so that he felt he just couldn't wait any longer and that he'd almost begin running around in circles trying to get the clock to move along faster to the moment when the gong was scheduled to ring.

And I guess every other athlete, on the eve of some big contest has felt the same way that I do. Lots of golfers who have gone along through a tournament and have reached the finals say that the night before and the morning during the waiting is a touch of hell for them. Ball players, about to take part in a world series clash, are the same. So are the stars in other fields of athletic endeavor.

WHEN the old training seige is over and there's nothing to do but wait through a night and through the day for action—well, with nothing physical to do to get the mind turned away from worry, a fellow just naturally does plenty of worrying.

It's funny how the old mind works then. When I'm in actual training or in an actual fight, I never give a thought to the possibility of spraining an ankle in a fall, or getting my arm or hand hurt, or getting my stomach upset by some sort of food But while I'm waiting around through those 24 hours for the bell to ring I get to worry about those things.

All during my fighting career it has been that way.

I've never worried while training. But during the waiting I've worried enough in 24 hours to last an ordinary human for a thousand years.

AND when I climb into that ring and have to go through the final stuff: the taking of pictures, the waiting during the announcements, the listening to the referees instructions and all that—well, my nerves get completely and absolutely out of control and I'm close to being a wreck before somebody bangs that old gong.

Out I go, shaky and quaky. And that's the way I remain until I land a punch on the other—or he slams me. When either of those things happen it's like an act of magic. The nervousness is gone in a flash. I become forgetful of my worries and my fears.

I'm fighting—at last. And from then on, to the end of the battle, I never think of the possibility of a broken hand, a twisted leg or anything else in the world.

I'm happy then, whether I'm losing or winning, for I am in a battle—and the actual business of fighting ever has been—ever will be—the source of a mighty gladness for me.

JACK GAGNON EAGER TO BATTLE MALONEY

As soon as Jack Gagnon is through battling Petro Corry, Austrian champion, at Worcester Friday night, he will take steps to force Jim Maloney to meet him according to an announcement made today by Sam Price, manager of Gagnon.

"Gagnon can lick Maloney and all he asks is a chance to prove it." Price declared. "If Jim will give Jack a shot we are sure that another fistic upset will be the result."

SCOUT PACT RAPPED BY HORWEEN

Non-Scouting System Is Impossible, Says Crimson Grid Coach

By VICTOR H. POLACHEK, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Arnold Horween, Harvard football mentor, today launched an attack against the Yale-Harvard "non-scouting" football agreement and against similar agreements which Harvard has with Pennsylvania and Vermont, and which Yale has with Princeton.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service, the Crimson coach declared that it was an impossibility to literally live up to such agreements, that they exposed coaches and universities to undesirable suspicion, and that they tended to "farcily football."

The "non-scouting" agreements state that teams shall obtain, except through newspaper stories, no information concerning the game of the team with whom the agreement has been made.

80,000 SEE CONTEST.

"Big games now are seen by eighty thousand people and more," said Horween. "Can these eighty thousand be silent about what they see? We here at Harvard cannot isolate ourselves from the eighty thousand who see games at Yale.

"A Yale play might be described to me because of something interesting about the play and the name Yale might never be mentioned in its connection. I could not know that the play was Yale's. I might give it to my men and show them how to defend it.

"Then when the Yale-Harvard game came around and Yale used the play and my men defended it as though they had seen it every day, we would all be open to an unkind suspicion. To observe literally these 'non scouting' agreements is impossible. And it is a tragedy to have agreements which aren't literally kept."

Indicating that he would like to see the agreements abolished, although Harvard was doing her best to live up to them, Horween then spoke of what a strict observation of "non scouting" agreements would do to football if such an observation were possible.

WOULD RUIN GAME.

"Football would get to be one grand farce," he said. "Playing would be spectacular and flashy. Unsound football would surplant the sound. Days when the best team won would be over, and coaches who could concoct the most eccentric and amazing plays would steer their teams to victory. Football would be a battle of coaches' wit—nothing more.

Scientifically prepared plays ought to be used against sound defenses prepared for those plays. As long as opposing teams are both led by coaches of good sound judgment the power to win or lose will depend on the resourcefulness and power of the teams. And that is what we want.

"Another thing," said Horween, "talk about over-emphasis. The anxiety during the week of not knowing a thing about the plays of Saturday's opponent will make complete nervous wrecks of our boys."

MUNN-GODFREY GO TONIGHT

New York, Sept. 14.—The biggest heavyweight show since the Dempsey-Sharkey battle and one that promises to have an important bearing on the 1928 championship situation is on schedule tonight at Ebbets Field, where Promoter Humbert J. Moore Fined $200 by Manager Bancroft

Louis and only 3½ games ahead of Chicago.

The Pirates, hanging on the first place by a few points, needed the Braves series to maintain their lead.

Manager Bancroft sent the following telegram to the Boston Evening American today explaining the Moore incident:

"Moore was angry because I took him out of lineup in second game. For this reason and also on account of heavy and wet field, he did not get a good start and was thrown out at plate. I think he loafed a little on the play and for that reason and also for talking back to me in the clubhouse I had to fine him $200.

"Nothing wrong, because Moore likes to beat this club as much as I."

Moore's indifferent play, according to experts, took place in the ninth inning of the second game. Urban opened the inning by shooting a single to centre. Moore was sent in to bat for the pitcher. He responded with a two-bagger to left. This put the tieing run on second base and was the signal for Aldridge to be yanked.

Kremer, the Pirates' best bet on the mound, was rushed into the fray at the turn in the game, with Richbourg at bat. Richbourg sent a long fly to centre and Urban scored. Moore made no attempt to reach third, but any attempt to do so would have proved dangerous, for Lloyd Waner has an exceptionally fine throwing arm.

Bancroft, in spite of a troublesome ankle, came next to bat and shot a clean single to centrefield, right through the pitcher's box, that rolled clear to centrefield. A slow runner could have scored the run. Moore, a speedster, is charged with just jogging to third on the hit and then making a belated sprint to score. He was out by 10 feet at the plate, and the chance of the Braves winning was snuffed out when Welsh made the third out.

Bancroft was furious. He followed Moore to the dressing room and demanded an explanation of his action. Moore claimed he got off to a poor start on the hit.

"He's not fooling me," Bancroft is alleged to have said, and then announced that he had slapped a fine of $200 on the indifferent player. Last night the Boston players would make no comment on the game or any of its particulars.

Moore came to the Braves by waivers and joined the club on July 20, 1926. Cash and a player were involved in the deal.

Final disposition on the case will come from Judge Fuchs, who at present is in New York. Bancroft has made a full report to his chief and further action on the player is expected in view of the charges.

Eddie Moore Never Popular With Fans

By JOE CASHMAN

Little surprise and less sorrow was expressed by Hub fans today when they learned that Eddie Moore, Braves infielder, had been fined $200 by Manager Bancroft for indifferent playing in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Moore, to say the least, has never been popular with the customers at Braves Field. It was never charged by his most bitter enemies that Moore ever deliberately quit or threw games, but he has always given the impression of being indifferent and of not caring in the least whether the Braves won or lost.

Much of the criticism directed against Bancroft this season has been due to his faith in Moore.

MOORE IN OUTFIELD.

For several days at the start of the season, Banny put Eddie in the outfield keeping Jimmy Welsh on the bench. The ex-Pirate was a good enough fly chaser and has a great arm, but, as every baseball critic knows, three Moores aren't worth one Welsh as an outfielder. Then to third he went in place of Andy High, one of the greatest and most popular players on the team.

Finally Banny shifted him to second base. His fielding wasn't so good and his batting was terrible while at the keystone sack, but he was kept in there while Thomas and Gautreau sat on the bench pining for a chance to play.

When Farrell came to Boston it was hoped that Moore would finally be taken out of the lineup, but instead Andy High was put on the bench again and Farrell went to third. This move incensed the fans to fever heat. High isn't the greatest fielder in the world, but he is one of the best stickers on the team and nobody could understand why a player like Moore who wasn't hitting .270 should be playing, while a natural .325 batter looked on from the sidelines.

At the start of the last Western trip Moore was stricken with an attack of rheumatism. The effect on the club was startling. They invaded Pittsburgh and knocked the Pirates off the roof by winning three straight.

Starting their last home stand with an infield composed of Fournier, Gautreau, High and Farrell, the natives then made their best record of the season, winning 15 out of 25 games in clashes with every club in the league.

MOORE RETURNS.

Then Moore returned and misfortune with him. In the midst of the winning streak, Banny took Gautreau out of a first game of a double-header with the Reds and put Eddie at second base. Kent Greenfield, who in his two previous starts had pitched a two-hit and three-hit game, was knocked out of the box and, according to statistics, he has not pitched a great game since.

In the second game of the same double-header, Moore went to third and High came out and again the Tribe took it on the chin.

The start of the present Western trip found Moore still parked on third, where he remained until last Saturday, when he went back to second in place of Gautreau and High returned to the hot corner.

The result of all this shifting to find a place for Moore in the lineup is that the Braves have lost nine games in a row.

N. Y. Ring Solons Summoned to Court

New York, Sept. 14.—Despite their decision to withdraw from the business of selling trunks, the members of the Boxing Commission will have to appear in Part 1 of the Supreme Court Thursday in connection with the hearing of a petition for a writ of mandamus, brought by Guiseppe Esarlo, proprietor of the Ideal Sporting Goods Co.

Esarlo seeks to restrain the commission from ordering boxers to buy their trunks from a certain favored company. The commission has already rescinded the objectionable order, but Esarlo is determined to have the matter threshed out in the courts, and it will be a legal test of the Three Dukes' powers.

10,000 See Sacco in Win Over Barbarian

By JACK CONWAY

JIMMY SACCO of East Boston once more conquered Sid Barbarian, Detroit Thunderbolt, in a furious punching duel before 10,000 fans at the Argonne A. A.'s show at Braves Field. The margin in Sacco's favor was a small one as Barbarian made a hurricane finish in the last three sessions in a desperate effort to turn the tide of battle in his favor.

The second meeting between Sacco and Barbarian didn't have quite as many thrills jammed into it as was the case when these boys met for the first time several weeks ago but they managed to keep enough punches flying through the air to keep the big crowd in an uproar most of the time.

Jack Conway

Sacco and Barbarian fought much like Battling Nelson did when at the peak of his fighting form. They even laughed after receiving terrific punches right on the chin.

Sacco's cleaner hitting was what gained him the decision. Jimmy cut his punches short and on numerous occasions he staggered the Detroit Thunderbolt with mighty blows to the chin or body.

Few persons who watched Sacco in his furious attacks realized he fought handicapped by an injured right arm. He suffered a bone injury in his first tussle with Barbarian and it pained him once he went into action at the Wigwam.

This explains why Sacco relied so much on left hooks to the head and body. He favored his right duke whenever possible.

But when Sacco did let fly with his right, he rocked Barbarian to the soles of his feet. He clipped the westerner with a number of hefty rights flush on the chin while he also counted with some deadly socks to the body.

IN the ten-round semi-final, which went on after the main bout, Billy Algers of Phoenix, Arizona, won the decision over Joey Knapp of New York after a lively battle.

Cornie Holmes of the South End, acting as substitute, furnished one of the surprises of the evening when he knocked out Al Delmont, Jr., of the North End in four rounds. In this chapter Delmont dropped Holmes with a body blow only to get tipped over a minute later with a sock to the pit of the stomach. Al struggled to his feet, but was then knocked out by another body smash.

Battling Silvia of Fall River kayoed Carl's Kelley of Charlestown in a round.

Walter Riley of Worcester won the decision over Dave Flash of Fall River in six frames.

Eddie Corlay of Dorchester was awarded the verdict over Artie Ryan of the South End in four rounds.

Young Tiernan, a promising looking youngster from Providence, won on a foul over Al Lewis of the South End in five rounds.

An Unexpected Meal

A STREET filled with boiling porridge was the sequel to a fire in Johannesburg, South Africa. Firemen poured tons of water on quantities of crushed oats, which soon began to boil from the heat of the fire, burst the walls and poured into the streets. Natives made hearty meals of the product.

Time for Prunes to Have an Inning

TIME was when the prune was the lowliest of fruits when to be referred to in terms employing its name was considered the worst of insults.

Long suffering landladies served them because they were cheap and could be called, in emergency, a dessert. But while the landlady considered merely the economical and utilitarian [illegible] "wotted" [illegible] value she was serving up to grumbling boarders. [illegible] we served prunes [illegible] the old time boarding house [illegible] would charge extra for them if they appeared on her table.

Truly, the stewed prune of olden days was pretty forlorn, but [illegible] that the changes that [illegible] the prune are without [illegible] stewed is by no means [illegible] way in which they [illegible] served. Take [illegible] following.

[illegible] Sweetmeats—Select large prunes, soak, steam and when cool remove pits. Stuff with mixture made from chopped raisins, walnuts, candied cherries or pineapple. Then roll in melted unsweetened chocolate or granulated sugar. Especially nice served with afternoon tea.

Tea-Time Sandwiches—Cut white or graham bread thin and spread with a filling made of one cup of chopped cooked prunes and one-half cup of chopped nut meats mixed with one cake of cream cheese. Roll and tie with [illegible].

Open Star Sandwiches—Cut bread with star-shaped cutter and spread thickly with softened cream cheese and garnish with quartered steamed prunes, radiating from a dot of jelly placed in the centre. These open sandwiches are tasty and attractive served with afternoon tea.

Bacon and Prune Canapes—Cut rounds of bread, spread with butter. Steam prunes, stone them and wrap each prune with a very thin slice of bacon. Place on [illegible] bacon. Place [illegible] and set in hot oven until bread browns and bacon [illegible].

Stuffed Prunes [illegible]—Steam large, meaty prunes [illegible] from [illegible] fill with a filling of cream cheese mashed to a paste with a little sweet cream and mixed with a few chopped walnut meats and finely chopped maraschino cherries. Fill the prunes, allowing the filling to protrude slightly at the open side. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with a French dressing made with lemon or orange juice in place of vinegar.

Prune Puff—[illegible] eggs, [illegible] cup powdered sugar, 1 cup cooked prunes.

Whip egg whites to stiff froth; add sugar slowly, beating continually; add prunes, which have been stoned and chopped; whip until very light. Bake in pudding dish in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Serve cold with soft custard made from yolks of eggs.

Stuffed Prunes — Wash, dry and stone them, cut almost in half and fill with a half marshmallow or blanched almond or chopped nuts and raisins and roll in sugar.

Prune Bread—One cup prunes, two and one-half cups graham flour or one cup flour and one and one-half cups graham flour, one-quarter cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, five teaspoons baking powder, one cup milk, one teaspoon melted shortening.

Stone and chop fruit (prunes must be soaked several hours and drained). Mix flour, sugar, salt, and baking powder, add milk and beat well, add fruit and shortening. Put into greased bread pan, allow to stand [illegible] to [illegible] minutes in warm place. Bake in moderate oven one hour.

Prune [illegible] Pudding—Sift together [illegible] and one-half tablespoons of flour, one teaspoon baking powder and one cup of sugar. Beat two eggs and add the dry ingredients. Stone and slice two cups of prunes. Break a cup of walnut meats in pieces or put through the food chopper.

Add the prunes and the walnuts and one cup of dried bread crumbs to the first mixture. Pour into a buttered baking dish, place in a pan of hot water and bake for an hour in a moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream. This recipe will serve from eight to ten people.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON (Authorized by Mr. Edison)

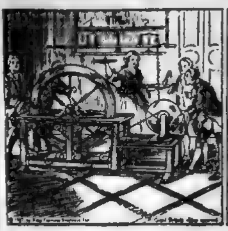
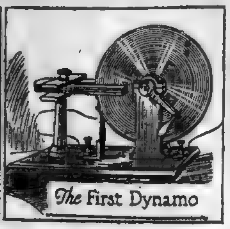
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



About 1650, Otto von Guericke built the first machine for generating electricity. A sulphur ball on a shaft was rotated at high speed. Electricity was generated when the hand was pressed lightly against the ball. About 1710 Francis Hawksbee produced light with a similar machine.

Von Kliest invented the "Leyden" jar about 1745, and first "stored" electricity. In a bottle of water he placed a cork with a nail touching the water. He connected a frictional electric machine with the nail, turned it a few moments, then touched the nail and was knocked down.

Benjamin Franklin made many tests with the Leyden jar. His most famous experiment proved that lightning is electricity. In 1752, by flying a kite in a thunderstorm, he charged Leyden jars with electricity from the clouds and drew sparks from a key attached to the kite string.



Another inventor who preceded Edison in the field of electrical research was Michael Faraday, a poor English bookbinder, who invented the dynamo. Here is Faraday's dynamo, built in 1831. A copper brush rubbed against the edge of a copper disk rotated between the poles of a magnet. (Continued tomorrow)

Don't Spread Common Cold, Says Dr. Reed

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR vigilance is required to protect not only yourself but your family from the common colds that come with the hot days and cool nights of early Autumn. This does not mean that you are to go about with a chronic scare that you or yours are in the constant presence of great danger. If you had to live in that state of mind the sooner the danger overtook you and finished you, the better for your happiness. But there is great difference between irrational fear and wise precaution. This is especially true with respect to the spreading of common colds.

Colds are caused by microbes or germs. Colds make us ill at the time. They lower our resistance to other diseases. They tend to make us an easy prey to the group of serious and often fatal illnesses that are caused by microbes of the same family. It is now quite certain that in the throats of people who have colds are to be found, in abundance, these organisms which are known to cause the more serious chest and respiratory complaints.

Every cold may be the forerunner of pneumonia. Abscesses and suppuration in the sinuses of the nose, in the ears, brain, chest, abdomen and elsewhere sometimes come from colds. Serious general blood-poisonings and other fatal illnesses have had similar beginnings. The carrier of a common cold, whom we laugh at and joke about in our comic papers, may be as deadly as an assassin.

It is time we sat up and realized the danger of the common cold and the necessity of treating it as we would any other serious infectious illness. Remember, there are no "little" colds.

A person who is just recovering from a common cold or "flu" is naturally bored with life. What does he do with his convalescent leisure? As often as not he goes on a round of visits to his friends and acquaintances, coughing and blowing his nose in their houses. Some convalescents go South for a holiday, taking their infection with them, to sow in new ground what is left after they have plentifully besprinkled the sleepers and coaches in which they travel. Many people, as soon as they acquired a good brand of "flu" or cold, seem to become possessed with the desire to hang around and share it with their friends and relations. They will tell them where they picked up the infection, but the idea that they are infectious themselves never seem to occur to them. They can grasp the idea of infection in the abstract, they can understand it in any one else, but if they are told they themselves are infectious they are terribly insulted and hurt.

Is the Hill Far Away Really Greener?

By Lucy Lowell

THERE are those who believe that the hill far away is greener and the rose in the next yard sweeter.

If it were not for hindering circumstances they would travel to that hill out there on the horizon and be happy. For there all things would be contrived to their advantage and there would be no such problems as perplex them in the place where they are.

And once in a while there are no hindering circumstances and these discontented ones do travel—only to find that the distant hill is much the same as the one they have left and that all the old problems await them there.

For problems are not of place, they are things of mind and are carried wherever the one to whom they belong may go.

And it is likely that there will be another far-away hill, greener of course and more inviting. And perhaps the wanderer will journey to this, only again to be disappointed.

"Every ship," wrote Emerson, "is a romantic object except that we sail in. Embark and the romance quits our vessel and hangs on every other sail in the horizon. Our life looks trivial and we shun to record it."

The real problem, of course, and the one to be solved by every one who would be happy is that of acquiring a true sense of values. Understanding that the thing you have is as desirable as the thing you have not if you will but make the most of it.

What is said of distance may also be said of non-possession—that it lends enchantment. But it is an illusory sort of enchantment, vague and unsatisfying while that which is near you is vital and real.

ON "RED AND BLACK DRESSING"

Some girls wear SCARLET.
And yet fail to Look GAY.
Others put on a little
BLACK frock and look as ENTICING as the very—
Well, they look just
DELIGHTFULLY WICKED.
Actually, a woman in
BLACK looks either dowdy
Or dangerous.
And a girl in SCARLET
Looks either GOOD or Terrible. (If she suggests
DANGER she looks good,
If not, she is DUMB.)
What women put on
Their BODIES should be
A reflection of
Their minds.
Those who wear RED must
Be VITAL and vivacious,
Otherwise RED advertises
What they LACK.
Women who wear BLACK
Should look on it as the

Designed to emphasize their

Black looks DEPRESSING, but

A Story of Sylvia Bryant, Stenographer, Among the Money Crowd

Joyce Ackerman, society woman and wife of Vance Ackerman, rich broker, appeals to a mutual friend, Alexander Ladd, a successful lawyer, to help her in her battle with Margot Liggett, who has won her husband's affections. Ladd persuades Mrs. Ackerman to install Sylvia Bryant, his stenographer, in her home as her social secretary. Ackerman admires Sylvia's beauty and charm, and Stuart Gifford, his cousin, falls in love with her. He makes light of marriage and she refuses to let him kiss her. Mrs. Ackerman confesses to Sylvia that she hoped her presence would aid in keeping her husband away from Margot. Sylvia overhears Margot's divorced husband threaten to kill Ackerman who defies him and says he is going out with Margot that very night. To avert a tragedy Sylvia begs him to take her to dinner. She tells Mrs. Ackerman what she is doing. Ackerman takes her to a revue.

Afterward Ackerman is stabbed to death. Sylvia flees and appeals to Gifford for help.

Ladd tells Sylvia she is in a dangerous position and he will devote himself to the task of getting her out of it. Intimates that he cares for her.

He gives her back her old job in his office with increased pay and has a row with his conservative law partners.

Sylvia gets warning from an old friend that she may be suspected as Ackerman's slayer.

Ladd corners Jack Liggett and offers him a chance to escape in return for a complete confession of guilt.

CHAPTER 41.

JACK LIGGETT'S confession had proved a sensation for the [illegible] papers, but Sylvia's name, though mentioned, was but a [illegible] role in the clamorous expose.

Ladd's connection with the case was prominently brought out; he had obtained the confession that Liggett had killed Vance Ackerman because he was jealous of Ackerman's attentions to Margot Liggett. Liggett had made the confession at Ladd's home and had promised Ladd to surrender immediately. Ladd's name was mentioned in nearly every paragraph. Several papers printed his picture and brief biographies of his career. Sylvia Bryant, a stenographer, the papers mentioned, had been present when Ackerman was stabbed.

Inconspicuous as her connection with the case now appeared it was sufficiently to make her, instantly, a [illegible] of avid interest to the clerks and stenographers when she reported for work at the offices of Seawright, Golden, Ladd & Sawyer.

The head clerk who was in immediate charge of the clerical [illegible] greeted her with flattering approval. "Mr. Ladd himself has just telephoned me that you are [illegible] your old place back, at [illegible] — yes, [illegible] considerably [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that he might at any moment pat her on the back.

Other girls looked around her as though she were a celebrity—yet still of their own sphere. "My dear . . . and you were there . . . I'll bet that Ackerman home was grand, wasn't it? Do you see Mr. Ladd [illegible] in a social way . . ."

Sylvia was [illegible] when the head clerk sent an office boy with a [illegible] for her to copy.

The partners of the firm, Mr. Seawright, Mr. Golden and Mr. Sawyer arrived, as befitted their dignity later in the morning. It was not until near noon that Mr. Seawright [illegible] saw her. He stopped stock still, his face shocked [illegible], he passed into his private office. Later, the office boy was [illegible] Sylvia's typewriter.

"Old Seawright wants to see you in his office."

Just what, Seawright demanded did she mean by coming back to their firm—after all that notoriety. An open newspaper was on his desk. Who, he wanted to know, had hired her.

"Mr. Ladd hired me."

"Nonsense," he said crisply. "Ladd hasn't been here today. You probably [illegible] that sheep-headed chief clerk into it. I don't mean to be unkind, young lady, but we've had enough of that nasty case around this office with Ladd in it up to his neck and you, too. I'm afraid you'll have to find employment elsewhere."

This in itself was not anything disastrous. Sylvia's competence would always insure her a job. But a matter of pride was involved—a matter of justice. She was not at all intimidated by Mr. Seawright.

"Mr. Ladd hired me night before last," she stated, calmly. "He felt he wanted me back and he phoned the office this morning that I was to be given my old place at an increased salary."

Seawright's face began to freeze. "Kind of him, I'm sure. So you see him at night, do you?"

"Whether I do or don't, I'm sure it doesn't concern you, Mr. Seawright," Sylvia said, levelly.

But this was dangerously near bickering and Seawright never bickered with stenographers. His voice became [illegible].

"You may return to your work for the present, Miss Bryant," he said.

Privately, being more of a [illegible] than a [illegible], [illegible] his assistant, later, between Mr. Seawright, Mr. Golden and Mr. Sawyer. A [illegible] stenographer [illegible] [illegible] before expressed to Sylvia a high regard for Alexander Ladd, insisted upon a [illegible]. Sylvia [illegible] "Gee, kid, I [illegible] for you . . ."

Across a white-topped table she told it all.

"And they simply raised hell in there. About Mr. Ladd—and you, too. Mr. Seawright claims that Ladd was going straight to the dogs—said he'd thrown [illegible] case for the firm to monkey around with you and that beastly Ackerman case. Mr. Golden said it wasn't you so much that was ruining him as his drinking [illegible]."

Sylvia felt herself shrivel inside. It was plain that she would, in good taste, have to resign. "I've seen Mr. Ladd quite a lot and I never noticed any evidence of drink about him," she said, loyally.

"That's what Mr. Golden said was so bad about it—he don't show it. They said he could drink any three men down. And betting money on horse races and the stock market and roulette—I guess he is pretty speedy, at that. Well, they were all mad at him and they said his connection with this murder case was absolutely ruinous to the business. Said it would wreck the prestige of the firm. You know how high-hat their clients are.

"And Mr. Seawright was all for giving him the air but the others said no—he was too valuable. Mr. Sawyer said he thought Mr. Ladd could be made to say uncle because he understood that he'd been getting rid of his money pretty fast and he'd probably wake up to how serious it was. But Mr Seawright just kept on grumbling and said Ladd hadn't been worth a damn since he got to running wild and that, for his part, he was through with him because when he put you back in the office, practically over everybody's head, it was practically the last straw so far as he was concerned."

Sylvia finished copying her typing task at three o'clock in the afternoon.

It was a neat, workmanlike job—the last she would ever perform for the firm of Seawright, Golden, Ladd and Sawyer. She put on her hat and coat and spoke briefly to the chief clerk.

When she left the office she was a member of the army of the unemployed. At an agency, she learned that her ability was suitable for an opening with an exporting company in State street. Hurrying to the address she favorably impressed a mild-eyed individual who needed a secretary. What he wanted, he said, was a steady girl with some idea of correct spelling.

Returning home for dinner she was certain that her path would never cross Alexander Ladd's again. She had, unwittingly, done him enough damage already.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

I am invited to a gathering which will start early in the afternoon and continue until late in the evening. Which would properly fit the occasion, a short sleeved, long sleeved, or sleeveless dress?

[illegible]

I APPRECIATE your quandary and this is one of the most difficult kinds of events to dress for. The best point of view to have about the clothes [illegible] party is to wear the clothes appropriate for the beginning of the party. And therefore I advise you to wear the long-sleeved dress.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married soon, and as my father is not living, I would like to know if it is proper for me to enter the room with my uncle and then to be given away by my mother? If this is not correct, kindly inform me of the proper procedure.

2. Who supplies the flowers for the bridesmaids and for the bride's mother?

3. Kindly criticize my writing and my letter form.

YES, this will be entirely correct and a nice thing to do.

2. The groom if he is a gracious and thoughtful person, will send flowers to the mother of the bride and to his own mother.

3. Your letter form is almost good. Just a bit more effort will yield great results. First, [illegible] on the envelope. Always you don't need marks of punctuation at the ends of the lines of the address [illegible] "open punctuation," that is, no punctuation.

Your letter form is careful, and if you will leave a margin on all four sides [illegible] will [illegible] a great improvement. Would you [illegible] This makes your [illegible] look as if it were [illegible] pleasing effect. In the [illegible] punctuation is ex[illegible] except that you should use a comma after the complimentary close, and any words after the first word [illegible] complimentary close should be written with a small letter, Yours sincerely.

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

From what side should food be passed at table? H. P. K.

A WAITRESS should offer food at the left, since this permits the guest to use the right hand in helping himself.

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a girl to write to a man friend first, a man who has left her town, or is it proper for him to write first? L. J.

BY all means he should write first. The most gallant thing for him to do is to ask for the privilege of writing to her, and then if she grants it—it is usually just a form—he writes to her first. All of which is reasonable—isn't it?

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

HERE is a discouraged girl who doubts whether, in all the universe, there is one "regular fellow." It's not so bad as that I can assure you my dear. There really are thousands of sensible, self-respecting young men. What is the matter with clever modern girls that they can't find such men and win their lasting love?

"Dear Miss Fairfax," writes Disillusioned, "it seems improbable that somewhere in this great wide universe there is not one 'regular fellow.' I have gone out with I do not know how many different young men and they all act the same. They expect a girl to fall all over them or else allow familiarities on short acquaintance.

"You may say I have not met the right sort of men. Where in heaven's name am I to meet them? I am no 'gold digger,' but when a young man invites me out and expects a 'necking party' in return for the evening, my policy is to make him pay and pay dearly.

"I, for my part, do not like 'sheiks.' They are supposed to represent the Valentino type, but they are 'kidding themselves.' Valentino was at least a he-man and a gentleman—more than can be said for the majority of men nowadays.

"You may ask why I accompany the type of man I have outlined. Well, I do not propose to stick in the house night in and night out, waiting for my ideal to come along. When he does, he will find me uncontaminated, because I invariably refuse to 'neck' and for that reason 'get the gate.'

"DISILLUSIONED."

CONSISTENCY is a jewel, Disillusioned, in romance as well as other phases of life.

You will not find your ideal [illegible] will he be likely to find you, if you associate with sheiks and other [illegible] types rather than stay home. If you practise gold digging you will be classed with gold diggers, regardless of your motives and secret convictions.

I suggest that you make your life conform to your ideal of what a girl should be and do. Go where high-minded persons are to be found even though this may mean church organizations rather than cabarets.

It takes considerable backbone and moral courage to stand clear-cut for ideals. But you can keep your own respect only in that way. Then, when Prince Charming comes he will recognize you for the winsome lovable girl you are. All success to you!

Maurine paced the decks with feverish impatience.

It's getting late and there are eighteen pages of "Maurine" still uncut.

Urged to hurry home and fan Helen's baby, unselfish Maurine "turned back on glory, art and Rome," and took the first fast "boat for home." Her only fear, she says, was that Helen might shed "a needless tear."

The author says Maurine paced the deck, saying to herself—

"O, ship, sail on! and bear me o'er the tide
To her for whom my woman's heart once died.
Sail, sail, O, ship! for she hath need of me,
And I would know what her last wish may be!
I have been true, so true, through all the past.
Sail, sail, O, ship! I would not fail at last."

And so she mumbled o'er and ever o'er, until the tugging ship reached shore. Maurine, you are a sweet and noble soul. You certainly shame the modern girl, who only uses a baby carriage to [illegible] gin.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas H Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

TERPSICHOREAN experts are working hard trying to find a successor to the "Black Bottom." They want to invent a step that people can do without having to go to a chiropractor after every dance.

IT'S getting so that you can't walk out on a ballroom floor nowadays without dislocating your hip.

ONE lady tried to keep her girlish figure by wearing a strait-jacket for an evening gown.

A FAMOUS academy held a contest the other afternoon and a guy with St. Vitus' dance won the prize.

HE shook himself into first place.

SQUIRMING comes natural to him, he used to work for the Piggly-Wiggly.

WE'LL soon be able to go to dances and leave our feet at home.

THE younger generation has never heard of the old time steps. One girl thought the Virginia reel was a moving picture of the South.

BUT our mothers can probably remember the days before waltzes were turned into wrestling matches.

OF course, that was long ago, when an undertaker was the only man who knew whether or not a girl rolled her stockings.

YOU could dance with a young lady in those days and eat all the onions you wanted.

IF she came close enough to smell the garlic on your breath, she was no lady.

A GENTLEMAN had to hold his partner so far from him that lots of times they could be dancing together and still be in different rooms.

BUT nowadays a girl clings to you so tight you'd think she was drowning.

IN some ballrooms they have referees on the dance floors.

MOST pavilions are so small that you get corns on your elbows.

IT won't be long now before people will be able to hold their social affairs in telephone booths.

TERPSICHORE is a harmless diversion but it should be more refined. It's too bad that we can't bring back those simple old fashioned dances like the Texas Tommy and the Shimmy.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS:

By HELEN ROWLAND.

VERILY, my Daughter, another Summer of Discontent hath passed away, and the vamp hath garnered her harvest of hearts, the fisher-of-men hath landed her "catch," and the husband-hunter brought down her game!

But that which the Tired Business Woman hath garnered, exceedeth them all. For she hath gained a Higher Education in the ways and by-ways of men in their hours of relaxation! Yea, she hath seen them in the RAW!

Behold, when the first fly appeareth upon the window, when the first straw hat appeareth upon the street when the first Summer widower steppeth out of his rappings and donneth his lighter underwear and emotions, then doth the Business Damsel's EDUCATION begin.

Lo, she hath glanced from the corner of her eye, and beheld men, when they returned from bidding their wives godspeed, and unlocked the secret drawer of their desks and foregathered to toast the absent. And the words of their lips were sad, but the look in their eyes was inscrutable.

She hath observed how their eyes and their [illegible] and their hosiery brightened, and their fingernails became more glittering and their hair more glossy, and they lost "that married look," as the days of their freedom increased.

She hath seen them, when they entered the office at high-noon, upon Monday morning, filled with grouches and remorse; and their breath was sweet with cloves, and they leaned their heads upon their hands.

She hath taken down their letters to their wives. Yea, many times hath she written, "Dear-old-Thing-working-like-a-dog-wish-I-were-with-you-miss-you-all-the-time-how-much-do-you-want." And her sleeves been filled with silent laughter.

She hath answered the long distance calls from the country, and sweetly said, "In conference," even though her heart told her that the place of conference was a roof garden, a golf course or a poker party.

She hath heard them groan and complain to heaven of OVERWORK, after a brief hour in the office, and beheld them sneak out by a secret door to the links.

She hath noticed the unaccustomed flower in their coat-lapels, the new geniality in their greeting, the powder marks upon their shoulders, the new glint in their smiles. But her knowledge is hidden within her breast.

For, verily, nine months of the year, doth a man labor and do all those things which his doctor, his wife and his conscience demand, but in the SUMMER time, he relaxeth and is natural.

And only his Shorthand-maiden knoweth him as he really is!

YANKS RULE FAVORITE IN POLO

Superior Mounts and Riding of Americans Give Them Edge Again Today

New York, Sept. 14.—America's Big Four will resurge to the defense of the International Challenge Cup today, weather permitting, against the reorganized British challengers, strong favorites, even as they were before the big first match.

Despite the more formidable British array it is felt that the Americans will once more attempt to get the jump on their foemen.

For that reason it may be that they will make some changes in the rotation of mounts, putting in fresh ponies in the very first chukker.

It is unlikely that Tommy Hitchcock, the high scorer of the defending team, will be astride anything other than the now famous Tobyanna, about as near perfection as a playing polo mount as one would care to see.

With the smart Piebald under Hitchcock there is quite a possibility that the other mountings in this first and fifth period will be the same, the variations coming probably in the fourth and eighth chukkers.

The feeling persists that the American string has a considerable edge on most of those used by the British. It is a delicate matter to criticize polo mounts, for the simple reason that all of them are for sale at some time or other, and those of the British string that are not furnished by the Maharajahs of Retlam and Jodhpur, will be up on the auction block at the close of the series.

None the less the visiting string plainly has not played up to its reputation so far. It may come through handsomely today, but one expects another display of American fourfooted superiority just the same.

Nashua Lost $4,500

Nashua, Sept. 14.—Treasurer A. F. Cheney of the Nashua New England League Baseball Club reported at the meeting of the directors this evening that the deficit was $4,500 for the season with some small bills yet to come.

School Notes

The entire schoolboy sporting world mourns the death of Joseph Sawicki, star Salem High back, who died in the Maine General Hospital at Portland after a week of suffering from an illness that puzzled the best physicians in the State. While working out with the Salem squad at Raymond, Me., he fainted on the field and remained in a coma until he passed away.

His death is a great blow to Salem. It not only affects the playing strength of the team considerably but also the morals of Coach Broderick's eleven. It is not known yet wheather the death will affect the Witches' scheduled opening against the General Electric team at Salem, Saturday.

A squad numbering nearly 100 is working out under Freddy Murray, new coach at Boston English. There are eleven veterans available and the outlook is rosy for the Blue and Blue. English will open its season at Quincy on September 24.

Chelsea and Melrose Highs join the list of schools looking for opponents. Melrose is in fine shape and would like to play Saturday, while Chelsea is craving action on Oct. 22 and Nov. 12.

Coach Mark Devlin has about 60 candidates working out at Lawrence. There are three backfield veterans available, Capt. Bob Haphey, John Broaca and John Janis. Ernest Perry is assisting Devlin in the coaching.

* * *

Opening practice at Punchard High found 11 veterans and 10 new candidates reporting to Coach Eugene V. Lovely. John Hall, star back, failed to return to school and Philip Allen will be out for the season because of injuries. The team will play its home games at Shawsheen Village.

Mansfield Gets Help With Haverhill Team

By JOE CASHMAN.

The epidemic of infantile paralysis which has halted all schoolboy athletic activities in the city, has given Head Coach James Mansfield and opportunity to complete the grid coaching staff at Haverhill High.

Charles C. White and Francis W. Cronan have been named as assistants to the former Medford High mentor, who took up the coaching reins at Haverhill last season and met with great success.

White was recently named assistant physical director of the Haverhill schools and Mansfield, who has the power to pick his own aides, immediately added the new official to his staff.

Cronan was graduated from Haverhill High in 1928 and was a football star during his undergraduate days. White, too, was graduated at the same time and both coaches played on the same Haverhill High elevens.

Cronan has had a lot of experience. He acted as scout for Bill Broderick and Charlie Dickerman, Mansfield's predecessors, and helped the present mentor more or less last season. It is expected that he will devote most of his time to scouting this year.

The new coaches will start work as soon as the epidemic is over. They will have to work overtime to catch up with the program Mansfield had mapped out before the dreaded disease started raging throughout the city.

Haverhill's opening game with Worcester South High scheduled for Saturday has already been called off and it is likely that the contest with Deering High on the following Saturday will also be cancelled.

And unless the ban on athletics is lifted very soon, it may be necessary to call off the Malden-Haverhill clash billed for October 1. Such an occurence would be very unfortunate as this game is one of the annual banner attractions of the schoolboy season.

Medical and Physicians 25

X-RAY

Examination, consultation, trial treatment and medicine absolutely free to all who call before Sept. 18th. The wonderful power of the X-Ray and mercury-quartz light treatment is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description—catarrh, bronchitis, deafness, stomach, nerve and skin disease. No matter what your disease may be remember Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., 18 Boylston St., will make good the above offer.

SKIN DISEASE

"Ed, you are suffering from Lupus, a skin disease that will cause you a great deal of trouble, and I advise you to get skilled medical attention at once," is what a druggist said to me. Edward A. Lunt of Newbury, Mass., made the above statement to the writer. He continued: "My wife had been healed of a severe eczema of the hands that caused her hands to become raw and bleed, so I thought that the treatment that had healed her would heal me and I had D. J. Walsh, M. D., treat me with the Mercury-Quartz lamp and the Lupus has yielded to the treatment and my condition has so improved that I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Walsh to all who suffer from skin disease."

STOMACH

MRS. C. MIDDLETON, 33 CUNARD ST., ROXBURY, MASS., SAYS: "I had suffered from stomach trouble for two years. I had employed four doctors, had been to clinics and hospitals, but nothing relieved my trouble until I had D. J. Walsh, M. D., treat me. I am feeling fine now."

DEAF

MR. EARNEST READ, 273 PUTNAM AVE., CAMBRIDGE, SAYS: "I had been deaf in both ears ever since I can remember. It seemed to be a family affliction, as other members of the family were more or less affected with deafness. There was a discharge from my ears and crusts or scales would form that would block my ears and interfere seriously with my hearing. I had been to doctors, and also was treated at the Eye and Ear Infirmary, where the doctors claimed that I would die from the trouble some day, as it could not be helped. I read of D. J. Walsh, M. D., and had him treat me, and he stopped the discharge and restored my hearing, which has remained good, although a year has passed since Dr. Walsh treated me."

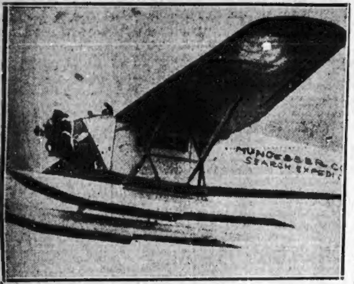
NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

An Air Boat

And a Plane for Land and Water



IT WENT SEARCHING FOR NUNGESSER

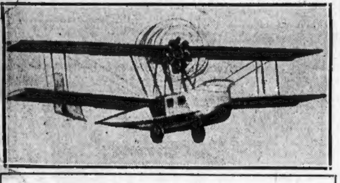
These two pictures of airplanes show the rapid progress in building air boats.

At the top you see what Mr. Fokker, one of the first and ablest airplane builders, calls his "universal plane." It is intended to land primarily on the water. But at a pinch it can land on land as well as on water.

This Fokker plane was sent by Harry Guggenheim to look for the two brave French fliers, Nungesser and Coli. Flying over all the territory toward Newfoundland, all the inland waters where the brave Frenchmen might have landed alive were searched carefully, but unfortunately without results. It appears now that these two names must be added to the long list of those that have given their lives in the cause of science and progress.

The picture below shows a machine built in France, intended for land or sea, and is the type of airplane that probably will be used more and more.

It carries wheels, on which it can run along the ground and start from the land. It is built like a boat, so that if it drops into the water it can run over the water and ride through the water.



THE "SEA AND SKY FOWL"

Eventually many of these planes will be built in America. Mr. Fokker may build them, Henry Ford may build them, or the Wright airplane builders may build them, or the great General Motors Company may start in building flying machines, which it hasn't done yet.

Any man possessing ambition, power and money, acknowledging science, may do his part in the great work of the age, taking men up from the earth into the air, and, above all, to make this country safe from attack.

The plane to be built should have wheels for the land, a body for the water, an arrangement by which the wheels can be withdrawn into a compartment in the interior of the boat, and that could come down again when they are needed for earth landing or starting.

We have hardly seen the beginning of flying as yet.

Human Resources

Training Camps Close Successful Season of Conservation Work

The Government camps for the military and civil training of citizens have closed their 1927 season and have left valuable lessons.

The records show a total attendance in the 52 encampments in 33 States of 39,676 young men—almost four times the number trained in the first camps seven years ago.

That is an encouraging ratio of growth when we consider how much initial misunderstanding of the purposes of the experiment had to be overcome.

Even more encouraging is the fact that this year the applications outnumbered the accommodations by almost one-half.

This shows that the misunderstanding is pretty well dispersed and that the experimental period is over.

We know of no investment by our Government which yields a better return in improved manhood or in national security than this yet small outlay upon these training camps.

It upbuilds bodies, inculcates a sense of civic responsibility, develops discipline and is a tonic to character, quite aside from its large value as a means of pleasant recreation.

The next Congress will have before it many problems in the conservation of natural resources calling properly for the expenditure of great sums from the public treasury. No conservation is more important than that of the human resources of the nation. Here it can be advanced at a relatively slight expense, with the benefits established beyond question.

It would be wise policy not only to provide generously for all the young men who would train to be better prepared as citizens but also for the young women as well.

INDEPENDENCE IN MONEY MATTERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

INDEPENDENCE is a very sweet word to Americans.

Few people, however, realize how intimately associated and consequently connected are dependence and poverty. I have seen a good deal of distress in my time and met many pitiable cases. Nine-tenths of them were due to lack of money.

For some reason, either their fault or somebody else's, they had no means and that meant for them humiliation and grief.

Few people are brave enough or capable enough to live their lives without means of some sort. It takes a much greater man constantly to live a life of poverty than to live a life of riches. His inner resources must be immense.

B. C. Forbes recently gave some practical, common sense hints to financial independence. He says that instead of poverty being no disgrace often it is a disgrace, and with a little intelligence could have been forestalled.

Without money we have, as a rule, no means of culture or education. We are unable to help others who need it and we are exposed to an old age where we will be dependent upon others. Besides this, there is the constant humiliation of asking aid from other people.

Some of the common sense advice that Mr. Forbes gives lies along the following lines. Of course, the fundamental thing is to spend less than you make. I think it was Dickens who said, for instance, that if you make 20 shillings and spend 19 that means success, but if you make 20 shillings and spend 21 that means failure.

Another thing is that this surplus must be saved. You can put it down as an almost invariable rule that a man can live on nine-tenths of what he does live on. By saving the extra tenth he lays the foundation of financial independence.

Workmen are nowadays often given the opportunity to buy stock in companies they work for at reduced rates. They can also get bonds, shares and perhaps a little piece of real estate with their extra money.

Some of the surplus each year should be put into buying a home. A home is a great stabilizer and a great incentive towards saving.

One of the first things also a workman should do is to take out adequate life insurance.

THE Summer days have swiftly slipped away, the Summer days of robin and of rose, and now September paints her colors gay on every falling leaf the fresh wind blows. There is no sorrow for the rose's bloom that lately dowered every breeze with sweets and shed the benison of its perfume down all the tranquil garden's cool re'reats. September brings a beauty of her own as rare as any charm the year can show, though every rose and lily now have flown the Autumn dyes and each with richer glow. And even so in life's late afternoon a mellow radiance may softly shine—September hours, more fair than those of June, may lack the rose but bring the grape's sweet wine.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

ONE very exclusive organization along Beacon Hill has a far from ornate club building. Great men in the professions, industry, finance, city and State politics, engineering and journalism are on the membership roll. They pay hundreds of dollars a year for house expenses, dues, tickets, meals and lunches.

• • •

We step in through an old door. The stairs creek and are badly worn. The windows let in little light. A huge building next door cuts it off. Up stairs the walls are not exactly perpendicular. The floors seem to droop in the middle. Few lights burn. Employes stand around. Two clubmen read magazines. All quiet.

• • •

The brightest parties go on behind closed doors. Fraternity alumni, various cliques and groups get together for a banquet. The butler brings in quart bottles of orange juice. He also brings in other liquids. Two o'clock in the morning the last one has departed.

• • •

At the telephone one member sat spending money. He ordered four theatre tickets at $5.50 apiece. Then he had a table reserved for the party at one of Boston's expensive after-theatre places. Then, as his guests were coming from Providence, he called to reserve rooms at a hotel. The evening's party was to cost him at least $100. Yet at the mention of his name, the various managers asked no advance. His name alone gets him what others cannot get for double the price.

• • •

We moved out and strolled up Boylston street. Frosted sea food windows as wet as a cat's nose. Wonder how many lights in the big clock over the railway yards. Sign in brownstone house window, "Home cooked meals, 40c." Perpetually young sheiks with glossy hair going into Chinese restaurants with girls. The glossy boys wear yellow shoes for evening.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I BOUGHT some dry goods in a country store the other day and as I came away I noticed the wrapping paper about my package. It was cheap, gray paper but watermarked on it, at frequent intervals, were these two words

"THANK YOU!"

As I read them I knew I held a new bit of world history in my hand!

We have not always said "Thank you!" to the passing stranger.

For millions of years we had a very poor opinion of all strangers. We hid in caves, banded together in small predatory bands and we regarded with hostility and suspicion anyone who was not of our immediate tribe.

We did not know of any other way to feel toward strangers. We were still living under the old animal law, which made each brute the enemy of every other brute. We had never heard of any other law and we would not have believed that any other law would work.

We still lived under that law long after our cave life had become but the dimmest memory.

We still live under it to a great extent. We still huddle in the fine, big cave we call America and look with suspicion and contempt on people who come from other caves marked Germany, Russia, Italy, India, China. We suspect that there's something lacking in people who don't have the good sense to be born in America, and we're on our guard against them.

Yes, the old law still holds, but its hold is weakening. That bit of wrapping paper was proof of that. There was a new gesture toward the outlander, a gesture which said—"I do not know you nor do you known me. You may be a Zulu or an Eskimo, a Rumanian or a citizen from Thibet, but there is something between us, nevertheless. You need the things I have and I need the things you have. That common need of ours is almost like a blood tie between us—it is almost as if we both belonged to the same family. So let's put away our old suspicion of each other and try to work together. Let's be polite to each other, even if we are strangers. Perhaps, after all, we're not as different as we think we are."

That is what that scrap of paper meant, and the spirit behind that scrap of paper is spreading all through our world, in spite of the fact that we are still suspicious and selfish and vain and cruel.

You can see it everywhere, in the new types of factories, with their rest rooms, cafeterias, swimming pools and tennis courts for employes—in the Americanization classes—in the settlement houses—in the free clinics and hospitals—everywhere the new law is slowly working its way and the old narrow suspicion and intolerance are giving way.

"But that scrap of paper was just a slick business scheme," you say. "People aren't really kinder to each other—they are just learning how to do better business with each other."

What difference? Better Business is just one way of getting civilized. It's as good a way as any of getting to know your neighbor and learning how to work with him. If a scrap of paper with "Thank you" on it makes two strangers feel more friendly toward each other it's as important as a Peace Conference.
